Beats Attempt to Repeal Undistributed Profits Levy
DEBATE NEXT WEEK
Measure May be Brought Up on Floor Thursday

Washington—(AP)—The house ways and means committee reached a complete agreement today on a proposed tax revision program after defeating a final Republican attempt to obtain complete repeal of the undistributed profits tax.

Chairman Doughton (D-N.C.) said only the formality remained of introducing the bill, perhaps next Tuesday and formally recommending it to the house.

The bill probably will be brought up on the floor Thursday, Doughton added.

The committee made no last minute changes in the proposed legislation, which contemplates broad modification of the widely criticized undistributed profits and capital gains tax along with imposition of a new surtax on large-income corporations controlled by a family or a few individuals.

G.O.P. Plan Beaten

By a vote which members said was 18 to 7, with some committee members represented by proxies, the committee defeated a Republican motion for outright revocation of the undistributed profits levy. By the same vote they said, it also turned down a Republican attempt to provide a flat 12 1/2 per cent tax on capital gains.

Doughton told reporters he felt deeply that "any cause for hesitation on the part of business to go forward, so far as taxes are concerned, should now disappear."

Business, Doughton added, will have the assurance that inequities and unjust burdens have been removed along with the removal of the undistributed profits tax. He said he never had believed, as many individuals had charged, that the latter was a principal contributing cause to the current business recession.

Uncertainty, he asserted, was one element which frightened business and the tax bill should remove that.

Provides Exemption

The proposed revenue act would give complete exemption from all undistributed profits tax to all corporations with incomes of $25,000 or less. Most larger firms would pay a tax of 18 to 20 per cent graduated according to the proportion of profits paid out in dividends to stockholders.

The capital gains levy, which likewise has been assailed as factor in business depression, would be "smoothed out," committee members said in a manner which should offer no impediment to investment of capital in productive enterprise.

In addition, the legislation would lower exemptions from the estate and gift taxes, repeal a number of excise and so-called "nuisance" levies and make a number of changes intended to simplify administration of the tax laws.

France Will Not Quit Her Allies, Warning

Paris—(AP)—Foreign Minister Yvon Delbos issued an implied warning to Germany today to keep nazi hands off France's central European allies.

In his first public pronouncement of French intentions since the rise of nazi influence in Austria and the dictators of Britain toward deals with Delbos, Delbos told the chamber of deputies France would follow England's lead but would not desert her small friends.

At the same time that he declared Austria must be kept independent and warned against setting up "any political hegemony" in central Europe, Delbos made a friendly bid to Italy, Germany's ally in the Rome-Berlin axis.

Informed political quarters said Delbos undoubtedly was warning Germany that France remained faithful to Austria as well as her Little Entente allies—Czechoslovakia, Yugoslavia and Rumania.

New Crisis Is Indicated for Gen. Pershing

'Unable to Take Nourishment or Drink,' Physician States

BECOMING WEAKER
World War Leader Unconscious Most of Morning Hours

Tucson, Ariz.—(AP)—Sinking gradually, General J. Pershing held tenaciously to life this afternoon despite a weakening of the rugged heart which carried him through a lifetime of battle.

The 77-year-old World war commander lay in a coma except for a few intervals of consciousness.

Dr. Roland Davison, in his afternoon bulletin, said no change had been observed in his condition in recent hours. The situation became most grave when physicians said that General Pershing did not rally at midday as he had done yesterday.

Since dawn the commander's hold on life had been wavering. Physicians moved in and out of his room anxiously and members of the family and friends paced the grass-covered grounds surrounding the hospital cottage in which he lay.

Doctor's Bulletin

Dr. Davison said early this morning weakening of the general's heart was noticeable. His bulletin at that time read:

"He is unable to take nourishment or drink." Dr. Davison's bulletin said. "His kidneys have ceased to function."

General Pershing had been unconscious during the greater part of the early morning hours, but Mr. Davison said that at times he regained consciousness for brief periods.

The general's earlier rally followed seven hours of unconsciousness during which the doctors, weary from almost constant vigil at the bedside, announced, as on the previous night, that he could not last much longer.

Starts Sinking Again

His heart grew stronger for a time and the 77-year-old World war chief showed resistance that surprised even his physicians, then started sinking again.

In the belief the end was near, arrangements were made for the war department to send the commander's old uniform from Washington by plane. It was understood General Pershing desired to be buried in it.

In a bulletin issued at 1:45 a. m. (3:45 a. m. E. S. T.) Dr. Roland Davison explained the old warrior was not responding as he should to the extreme treatment he was receiving.

"Everything possible to improve his condition is being done," Dr. Davison said.

Youths Testify In Slaying Case

Father and Son Sought for Questioning in Chicago Killing

Chicago—(AP)—Two youths who were present at a scuffle preceding the death of Edward C. Richard, 59, printing company vice president, were questioned today by police.

The boys, Robert Francis, 16, and Jack Krokoski, 17, appeared voluntarily on the advice of Trams' father, Harry, the latter said.

Meanwhile detectives sought for questioning Charles C. Schmidt Sr. and his son, Charles Jr., 19. The elder Schmidt was president of the firm of which Richard was vice president.

The Schmidts were sought after Mrs. E. J. Johnson, secretary of the company, testified at an inquest yesterday that Schmidt Sr. and Richard had wrangled over business affairs and had not been on good terms for four months.

Richard was beaten fatally in front of his north side home Thursday night.

Sergeant Donohue said Trams and Krokoski told him they went with Schmidt Jr. to Richard's home on what they thought was a business errand.

Dr. Robert Rotschild testified at the inquest, which was continued to March 15, that Richard's nose had been broken and his skull fractured, probably when he fell to the sidewalk.

Union Head Breaks Up

Milwaukee Strike Riot

Milwaukee—(AP)—Harold Christoffel, president of the Milwaukee County industrial union (CIO), terminated a battle between pickets and police at the strikebound A. F. Gallun and Sons corporation today this afternoon with a shouted plea for peace.

Christoffel grabbed a microphone attached to a loud speaker system and urged the crowd to stop fighting and the clash ceased.

Pickets then formed a parade to march to the county court house for a demonstration.

The fight had lasted half an hour. Three policemen and a picket were reported injured. Windows of three cars containing non-strikers were smashed as they attempted to break through a picket line.

Edison Thinks Strong Navy Is War Preventive

Wants Force Large Enough So 'Others Will Not Risk' Strife

P A R I T Y E S S E N T I A L
Believes Nation Can't Afford Separate Atlantic Fleet

Washington—(AP)—Charles Edison, assistant secretary of the navy, told congress today the future peace of the United States depended directly on the maintenance of a defensive force "sufficiently strong and expertly trained that other nations will not risk a war with us."

Testifying before the house naval committee on behalf of the $1,156,000,000 naval expansion program, Edison said he was "thoroughly and sincerely" in favor of it.

In the face of current international political conditions, he asserted, "it is certain that our naval needs are for parity in strength with other naval powers."

Edison denied the proposed naval expansion was based solely on reports in Italian newspapers that Japan was building 43,000 ton battleships.

Although he said he believed a separate fleet for the Atlantic was "desirable" he went to do a real job of national defense, Edison expressed belief the nation could not afford it at this time.

Airship Question

In response to questions by Representative Maas (R-Minn.) Edison said he did not believe the navy had built enough airships to justify complete abandonment of lighter-than-air craft.

Representative McGrath (D-Calif.), strong advocate of the proposed naval enlargement, drew from Edison a statement that the government could build four or five dirigibles for the cost of one cruiser.

The secretary agreed with McGrath that if dirigibles prove efficient as aircraft carriers, ten dirigibles would be just as useful as one surface aircraft carrier, although he said they would be used in different fields.

"Do you think we can ever depend on peace in Europe even for a limited number of years and that we should let ourselves be put to sleep by the assurance that Europe would not fight again?" the Californian inquired.

"No," said Edison.

Vinson's Stand

Earlier Chairman Vinson (D-Ga.) of the house naval committee proposed today that the navy expansion be continued.

Tenor Collapses on Metropolitan's Stage

New York—(AP)—Giovanni Martinelli, Metropolitan Opera tenor, collapsed on the stage of the opera house today while singing an aria in "Aida."

The singer slumped to the floor as he neared the close of the selection.

The curtain was rung down and the performance was delayed until a substitute could be obtained for him. The opera was being broadcast over a national NBC hookup.

The collapse was announced over the radio to explain the sudden break in the singing.

At the opera box office, attaches said Martinelli would be "unable to continue" but that he "seemed to be all right." They said they had no information on the cause of the collapse pending the report of a physician who was called backstage.

Chicago—(AP)—Colonel Noble Brandon Judah, former United States ambassador to Cuba, World war veteran and lawyer, died early today.

The 56-year old former statesman had undergone an operation early last month for removal of his right eye at the Johns Hopkins hospital, Baltimore, Md.

Colonel Judah was ambassador to Cuba in 1928 and 1929. During the war he was assistant chief of staff of the Rainbow Division.

Thinks Accurate Weather Forecasts May be Made 3 to 5 Days in Advance

Pasadena, Calif.—(AP)—Accurate weather predictions three to five days ahead may come in the near future, Dr. Irving Krick, leader in the air-mass method of forecasting, said here today.

"This will be possible if radio meteorograph stations are established all over the country," he said. "When these air exploring devices are sent up from ships, even seasonal forecasts may become possible."

Dr. Krick is head of the meteorology department of the Guggenheim School of Aeronautics at California Institute of Technology. Nearly all airlines use the air-mass system of forecasting.

The federal weather bureau established three radio meteorograph stations last October, in Boston, Burbank, Calif., and Fairbanks, Alaska. Balloons are sent up 60,000 to 70,000 feet, carrying a tiny device weighing slightly more than a pound which reports by shortwave radio the barometric pressure, temperature and humidity at different altitudes.

2 Men and Woman Are Nabbed in Plot to Sell Army and Navy Secrets

Each of Trio Is Held in New York on $25,000 Bond
PROBE CONTINUES
Identity of Nation Buying Reports Not Disclosed

New York—(AP)—Two men and a woman arrested as spy suspects by federal agents were taken before United States Commissioner Charles W. Cotter today and held on $25,000 bond each on charges of espionage.

Reed Vetterli, head of the federal bureau of investigation in New York, indicated that further arrests were forthcoming.

"The investigation is continuing," he said.

The trio fell into a G-man trap after a probe showed a "leak" in secrecy surrounding United States army and navy secrets.

Vetterli did not identify the nation allegedly involved in the sale of United States government information.

The trail apparently was taken up a week ago by federal authorities after a "rumor" package of passport applications for which a fraudulent demand had been made was picked up by a man described as "young, blond and Teutonic appearance."

The demand for the bundle of passport applications was made in the name of a "Mr. Weston, under-secretary of state."

Vetterli quoted one of the prisoners, Gunther Gustave Rumrich, one-time United States army sergeant, as confessing he obtained money for the espionage information from agents of a European secret service ring.

Vetterli added that the information was going to one particular European country, rather than to a "clearing-house" for foreign military and naval information.

Washington—(AP)—J. Edgar Hoover, director of the federal bureau of investigation, said today that three persons had been arrested in New York in an alleged plot to sell United States army and navy secrets.

The persons in custody are Johanna Hoffman of Dresden, Germany, a hair-dresser on the transatlantic liner, Europa; Gunther Gustave Rumrich, former United States army sergeant and allegedly an army deserter, and Erich Glaser, a soldier stationed at Mitchell field.

Hoover said Rumrich confessed that he obtained various sums of money from persons purporting to be secret agents of a foreign government in return for information concerning coast artillery and other fortifications and the mobilization of troops in connection with the defense of the Panama canal.

The bureau director quoted Rumrich as saying the military secrets were sometimes written in code and turned over to Miss Hoffman or other individuals employed on various ships that called at New York.

Messages by Code

On other occasions, Hoover said, Rumrich would send the information by code to various addresses in a foreign country.

Hoover said further investigation disclosed that "certain secret agents" were plotting to lure the commanding officer of an important New York military base to a mid-town hotel under forced orders, at which time the officer would be instructed to bring to the hotel certain important military secrets. He would then be relieved of the plans, Hoover said, by the secret agents.

Rumrich was arrested by agents of the state department and the New York city police, the G-man chief asserted, while attempting to obtain 50 passports by impersonating Secretary of State Hull.

Agents of the F. B. I. continued the investigation, Hoover said, ascertaining through statements made by Rumrich that he was obtaining

'Victim of Hatchet Assault Is Given Chance of Recovery

New York—(AP)—An emergency operation for a compressed skull fracture on John C. Abott, 32-year-old engineer, victim of a hatchet assault by another reader in the New York Public Library, gave hope for recovery today.

Charles Frankel, 33, Polish born graduate of City College of New York, is held, charged with felonious assault and carrying a concealed weapon.

"I was sitting reading when this man annoyed me. I lost my head completely," Frankel told police. "Why did you have a hatchet?" asked Acting Captain John C. Stein.

"Well, I'm in the building line and I do a lot of wall testing," Frankel said. "You had trouble at the library before?"

"Yes, I had trouble," the prisoner said, admitting he had stabbed and slightly wounded another reader earlier this week in a quarrel over books.

Opening statements were made to the jury by the government and defense this noon. Trial resumed at 2 o'clock p. m.

250,000 Chinese Forced to Retreat To Yellow River

Japanese Press Westward To Invade New Territory

Shanghai—(U)—An army of 250,000 Chinese is being repelled toward the Yellow river in Shansi province, in a Japanese westward drive to invade hitherto untouched Shensi province, headquarters of the Chinese red army and other guerrilla units, a Japanese spokesman reported tonight.

Apparently Suitch, in north Shensi, was the Japanese objective from which they could radiate to occupy the vast wheat-producing plains and rich terraced hillsides and conquer the provincial population of 18,000,000.

Broadly, occupation of Shensi province would constitute a tremendous flanking movement against the western end of the Lungai front.

A Japanese column claimed capture of Lishih, leaving but 18 miles between their front and the yellow river. Thousands of Chinese were massed in that narrowing corridor.

The Japanese front reached to Linghsinh, in southern Shansi, where 100,000 of the defense forces were arrayed for battle.

Chinese military dispatches, said defeat of the Chinese in the Ling-shih battle probably would mean loss of southern Shansi province.

Aerial warfare became more severe as the Japanese, stung by an unprecedented bombing raid on Formosa, retaliated by attacking Chinese air bases at Nanchang and other inland points.

It is in the Pengpu area that Japanese troops advancing northward toward the Lungai railway have been held up for weeks by the hard-fighting Chinese. Recently the Chinese have driven the invaders back many miles, in some places forcing them to retreat across the Hwai river.

Southwest of Nanking, Japanese land forces are making preparations to carry on their long-delayed advance up the Yangtze river.

help preserve Austrian independence from nazism's desire to attain power there.

Defies Nazi Efforts

But Austria's Premier Schuschnigg, warmly praising Italy's Mussolini, defied Nazi efforts to unite Germany and Austria. This led to reports in Vienna and Berlin in London that Italy had renewed pledges to support Austrian independence, and that support could aid Britain in efforts to block further German dominance of central Europe.

Berlin nazis, angered by Schuschnigg's parliamentary speech of independence Thursday night, are urging his ouster.

Taking another tack, Fuehrer Hitler's newspaper, the Voelkischer Beobachter, charged editorially that Russia was "the defender of Austrian independence" and alleged "impudent soviet interference in German internal affairs."

This led to speculation in some Berlin quarters that Hitler might be planning steps to "protect" German-speaking Austria from Bolshevism.

France-Russian Pact

It is known that the German aim in the projected four-power pact is to break up France's alliance with Russia, by which the one is pledged to defend the other in event of attack by a third European power.

Austrian nazis, meanwhile, are furious with the turn of events. Nazi political prisoners won amnesty and Nazi-inclined ministers now are in the Austrian cabinet, but the party still is illegal in Austria and Schuschnigg's independence stand has roused new dissatisfaction.

While the majority of Austrian political sympathy appears to be for independence, the nazis are irked and planning widespread demonstrations this weekend.

The demonstrations may be a test of strength between Schuschnigg and the Nazi opposition.

At the same time, Delbos made clear the government was resolved to keep her obligations toward Czechoslovakia and to maintain the Franco-soviet mutual assistance pact.

Believe Decline In Pay Rolls and Jobs Is Near End

Downward Trend Appears To Have Abated. State Commission Says

A downward trend of employment and pay rolls in Wisconsin industry and business appears to have abated to a considerable extent, according to state industrial commission.

During January, in Wisconsin, factory employment was 5 per cent lower than during January, 1937. Reductions in payrolls and employment from Dec. 15 to Jan. 15 in Appleton showed a percentage loss of 5.5 and 1.3 respectively, the commission said.

The average weekly earnings of factory workers in the state declined from $23.98 in December to $22.88 in January, while the hours of work a week were cut from 37.1 to 35.2.

The commission attributed a large part of the cut in retail trade employment to dismissal of temporary holiday employees. During the December-January period, the commission said, retail employees worked an average of 42.8 hours a week and earned an average of $21.11.

The commission reported reductions in factory employment and pay rolls in cities between December 15 and January 15 as follows: (first figures show percentage of loss in employment; second figures percentage of loss in pay rolls)—Appleton 1.3, 5.5; Green Bay 3.9, 5.2; Kenosha 2.0, 21.9; La Crosse 41.9, 30; Madison 4, 1.1; Manitowish 13.5, 13.9; Milwaukee 6.4, 12.4; Oshkosh 2.9, 7; Racine 6, 8.4; Sheboygan 9.3, 18.4.

In Milwaukee, the commission said, factory workers earned an average of $23.34 a week in January compared with $26.20 in December and average hours of work declined from 36.7 to 34.5.

Pastors to Urge Preparation for Lent Observance

Appleton Clergyman and Choir to Participate in Green Bay Service

Because tomorrow is the last Sunday before the opening of the Lenten season, several of the sermons to be given by local pastors at the morning services will stress preparation for Lent, the 6-week period of penitence preceding Easter.

The Rev. R. E. Ziesemer, pastor of Mt. Olive Lutheran church, will preach at his church on "Behold the Suffering of Jesus Christ," while at St. Paul Lutheran church the Rev. F. M. Brandt, pastor, will speak on "All for Sin Could Not Atoned, Christ Must Save, and Christ Alone," "The Aim of Lent."

The sermon by the Rev. John B. Hanna, at First Congregational church Sunday morning will be on "Dante." The College Women's Forum of the Congregational church will meet at 4 o'clock Sunday afternoon at the church from where the members will go to St. Joseph's church where they will be taken through the church by the Rev. Father Gerard, O. M. Cap.

"Facing Our Task"

"Facing Our Task" is the subject of a talk to be given by Dr. Harry C. Culver, pastor of First Methodist Episcopal church, at the morning service at his church Sunday, at St. Matthew Lutheran church the Rev. Philip Froehke, pastor, will preach on "Private Property," "Religion and the Home" is the title of a sermon to be given by the Rev. R. H. Spangler at First Baptist church tomorrow morning. The monthly service for children will take place at 10:15 Sunday morning at St. John Evangelical church, when the Rev. A. Guenther will preach on "The Human Camera." In the evening the senior and junior choirs under the direction of W. C. Harris will present a program which will be open to the public.

The Rev. D. E. Boserman, pastor of Trinity English Lutheran church, will give a sermon entitled "The Heavenly Highway" at the morning service at his church Sunday. At Emmanuel Evangelical church the sermon by the Rev. G. H. Blum, pastor, will be on "Pioneers of the Evangelical Church." The Rev. C. E. wide minimum wage of 40 cents an hour and a 40-hour week.

(4) A proposal by Representative Rameck (D-Ga.) to give the federal trade commission authority over unfair competition caused by low wages and long hours.

The committee will meet Tuesday to discuss the various proposals. Rameck said he believed the federal trade commission was unconstitutional. He also expressed belief the revised version of the bill passed by the senate would be rejected by the house because of the exemptions had made it more drastic.

Defer Other Measures

Other committee members were equally critical of the proposal to revive NRA standards.

If wage-hour legislation is abandoned, it will join two other proposals on President Roosevelt's original legislative program which apparently have been sidetracked for this session. The others are anti-trust law revision and regional planning.

Because Attorney-General Cummings said a great deal of time would be required to lay the groundwork for revision of the anti-trust laws, house leaders expressed belief nothing would be done about that type of legislation at this session.

As for regional planning, the house rivers and harbors committee has shelved it at least temporarily in favor of legislation for a Great Lakes water diversion project.

Another of Mr. Roosevelt's proposals—government reorganization—may come up in the senate Monday.

Opposition Develops

Opposition has developed there to give the president power to make sweeping changes and consolidations in existing agencies.

Neither senate nor house was in session today.

The house naval committee, however, continued hearings on the navy expansion bill, hoping to wind them up Monday. A joint senate-house committee sought to adjust differences in the $250,000,000 relief deficiency bills passed by the two bodies.

The senate cleared the way yesterday for possible consideration of the reorganization bill next week by passing two appropriation measures—the $1,400,000,000 independent offices bill and a $28,000,000 deficiency measure.

Before disposing of the larger one, the senate restored a $2,763,000 item to permit the Tennessee Valley authority to start construction of a $112,000,000 flood control reservoir at Gilbertville, Ky. The house had refused to approve this item and the dispute must be ironed out in conference.

Test Sentiment Of Progressives On Party Policy

LaFollette Seeks Advice on Course He Should Pursue

(Post-Crescent Madison Bureau)

Madison—A Progressive plebiscite, in which 500,000 rank and file members of the LaFollette party, the factory employee, the farmer and the corner grocer, will make known their wishes on fundamental future party policies was underway today, according to reliable information obtained here.

The plan was advanced this week at a meeting of the Progressive party's local managers, members of the state central committee, by their chief, Governor Philip F. LaFollette, it was revealed by reliable sources. Results will be reported back at another party conference this spring. It is understood.

Here are the questions on which the privates in the Progressive party machine will be interviewed by its leadership:

1. Whether Governor LaFollette should become a candidate for a fourth term as governor, run for the United States senate, or "something else."

2. Whether the Progressive party should continue to function as an independent third party state unit, join one of the national parties, either Republican or Democratic, and by a process of "boring from within" carry forward a national liberal program, or whether to begin laying the groundwork for emergence as a national third party with inter-state machinery, national candidates and the other essentials by 1940.

"Educate" Nation

What the "something else" in the future possibilities for Governor LaFollette may be was not specifically revealed, but there were some suggestions in capital circles after the party gathering that it suggests the possibility of the governor's retirement in order to begin a national third party educational campaign, in much the same way in which Wisconsin's Glenn Frank, as a private citizen, is now trying to demerit the Republican organization.

An especially significant development, according to capital observers, was the suggestion that the Progressive party may join one of the national parties. By general agreement that national party would be President Roosevelt's New Deal Democratic party. Prior to this year, the LaFollette and his followers have kept up a steady discussion of an eventual third party on a strict farm-labor cleavage.

It is significant too because the present Progressive party, which has been in office for two successive terms and now has complete a dominance over the state government as any party ever has in the result of two generations of "boring from within" the state Republican party.

Learned From Father

Governor LaFollette, who admits that many of his lessons in practical politics were learned at the knee of his father, is old enough to remember that with only a few interruptions the LaFollette faction controlled state affairs from 1900 to 1934, although the state was nominally Republican.

In 1934, with the help of some missionary work by zealous rank and file followers, the new Progressive party was formed, and whenever they may say now, the leaders at that time were not too hopeful that the move would be successful.

It became evident this week that the party managers are beginning early to prepare for the 1938 campaign, which holds much promise of becoming an historic one, and that early efforts will be made to join the factions now threatening disaffection into the solid, unified organization which captured five state offices and both houses of the legislature in the 1936 election.

The hydraulic lifts will eliminate the danger of flooding the building and insure safer working conditions, Baetz said.

More than 4,000 letters have been sent to United States Senator Robert M. LaFollette from Appleton people, mostly Catholics, protesting his recent endorsement of the message of greeting to the loyalists in Spain. Letters were made available at the Catholic churches last Sunday and have been signed and mailed in individual envelopes to Senator LaFollette.

The letter of protest reads as follows: "As a voter of Wisconsin, I take this occasion to express my keen disappointment at your recent endorsement of the message of greeting to the Leftist members of the Spanish Cortes. In addition I desire to say, with all the strength of my conviction, that I strongly protest against your failure to retract your endorsement when it was brought to your attention that this message was an expression of sympathy with a Communist form of government. I know that you have certainly failed to express the sentiments and offended the feelings of a large number of Wisconsin voters, true Americans and lovers of democracy. I strongly urge that you, as my representative, retract, in the public press this expression of my supposed sympathy with Communism."

Says Strong Navy Is War Preventive

sion program provide for improved shipyard facilities, particularly on the Pacific coast.

He said the nation would be "in a horrible fix" if war should find the yards congested.

"What would we do for repair facilities if some of our vessels become disabled in battle?" he asked.

"It is imperative that we have private as well as navy yards available to handle both construction and repair work."

Vinson, entrusted by the administration with guiding the $1,156,000,000 navy bill through the house, said he would offer an amendment to give west coast shipbuilders a 6 per cent differential on naval contracts.

Under this proposal Pacific coast builders could submit bids 6 per cent higher than the lowest in the east and be eligible for contracts.

Similar provisions are in the merchant marine acts and in the naval auxiliary building program authorized last year.

Inson said he also would offer an amendment to permit the navy department to improve all navy yards.

Naval officials said they contemplated expenditures from $2,000,000 to $10,000,000 at each yard, in order to complete the projected building program in "reasonable" time.

Authorize Abandonment Of Railroad Service

Madison—(U)—The public service commission announced today it had authorized abandonment of service by the Wisconsin-Michigan Railroad company between Bagley Junction and Marinette in Marinette county.

Prior to this, the commission opposed abandonment before the interstate commerce commission, but when the federal board granted abandonment of interstate service to Iron Mountain, Mich., the Wisconsin commission changed the ruling.

The commission denied an application for a new crossing over the North Western and Kewaunee, Green Bay and Western roads, by Bay.

Mason Claims Best Way to See Mexico Is by Trailer

BY CARL W. MASON

Tamuzachale, Mex. — After all the traveling jobs have sung their songs of sorrow and unwarranted fears, the fact remains that the most satisfactory way to see and appreciate Mexico, with incidental maximum of comfort, health and independence, is by trailer. Today we descended from the 7,440 foot altitude of Mexico City with its night and morning chills and its great, high-ceilinged, clammy cold mansions of tourist entertainment to the 500-foot level of this tropical paradise at the foot of the 160-mile climb to the Mexican capital.

Four trailers are parked comfortably in this green, well-shaded and pleasant Gaudy Courts, just off the great highway. The cost of parking, with electricity, is only two pesos a night or ten pesos a week. One of the trailerists here told me he figures we can live in Mexico, especially in such a community as this (3,000), for 20 to 25 per cent less than in the United States.

Plenty of fine fruits and vegetables and good milk can be bought here at low prices, as can Mexican coffee. Concocted goods are exorbitantly high, however, owing to the heavy tariff and long distance hauls. A large can of California peaches costs about 70 cents American money here and other canned goods are in proportion. Tourists planning to enter by trailer are therefore advised to stock well with canned goods in the United States before crossing the Rio Grande. San Antonio is a notably low-priced city in which to buy.

Interesting Sights

Some Indiana friends camping here in a trailer have spent nearly two weeks in all in this fascinating little city, as yet little touched by the outside influences. There are interesting places to see about the quaint town with its lively business section, its weekly market, its 000,000 navy bill through the house, said he would offer an amendment to give west coast shipbuilders a 6 per cent differential on naval contracts.

This opportunity for small town camping by trailer may be duplicated in many other parts of Mexico, especially all along the lengthening system of paved highways but also along dirt or gravel roads not yet officially recommended to tourists. Electricity and camp facilities are lacking in such places, except in a few towns on the Pan American highway, and the water must be carefully boiled, fruit and vegetables peeled or brushed with unbleached care, but life is very easy and pleasant for all that. One must also guard against sickness here. Tonight a booted Texan cordially greeted me in camp here, presented me with a handsome fire opal—my birthstone—and told of how he and his wife were stricken with malaria while camping on the river nine miles distant and off the highway, the situation being particularly aggravated by the lack of medical and nursing attention and facilities and the inability of the willing natives to give the care required. The Americans appear to have recovered in good order, however.

Water Is Scarce

Today, rolling out of Mexico City with a last reluctant glance toward the great capital, we climbed into high bare mountains and tablelands arid and desolate as any in our own west. The scattered inhabitants live in miserable mud and stone and grass huts, some scarcely a shelter. Frequent small flocks of goats or sheep testified to the apparent principal source of their sustenance—livestock—and that means, of course, borne on the back or head.

The people seem to be even too poor to support the familiar burro as we saw very few about the pinched little homes of that zone. Little, low-roofed but always towered and domed adobe churches centered every sparse community. The radical prohibitions against the prevalence of the Catholic church of Mexico that aroused so much indignation in the United States several years ago have been removed and the religious life of the people goes on as of old, although the priests and hierarchy are under certain government regulations and restrictions. That barren section is not favorable for camping but interesting stops may be made there or nearby by the trailerist.

Down here in the jungle and tropical country the footprints of the conquering Aztecs have been left far behind and traces of the once powerful and highly civilized Toltecs who preceded yet gave way to them may be found in this part of the country. Over behind the mountain close to our camp lies a noted ancient shrine or altar of this little known race and it is proving a lure to a few of the hardy trailerists and other travelers who love the beaten track. Such side journeyings, contacts with the untouched virgin life of the country, visits to little known spots are the special privilege of the trailerist who is not bound by scheduled routes, hotels, the outlined jumps between "American" camps or stopping places and "American" food facilities.

Nor are the so-called "American" services all that the glittering advertisements lead the credulous traveler to expect. This noon we stopped at the famed Simpson restaurant at Jacala but were given very indifferent service and most mediocre food—partly Mexican—at prices equal to the average of high class Mexico City cafe. The only bright spot of the stop occurred when I glanced out of the door and saw the familiar faces of Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Bentz, formerly of New London, now of Escanaba, Mich., who are returning from a trip to Acapulco on the south Mexican Pacific coast. Mr. Bentz was one of the fortunate fishermen of this season at that isolated port—reached only over 165 miles of very bad road—for he captured a 175-pound sailfish, one of the greatest prizes of the deep-sea angler.

The traveler planning to visit Mexico may profitably study a little Spanish in advance. It is a fairly easy language to learn. Small efficient textbooks are obtainable at little cost. Probably the Mexicans will have a lot of fun with the efforts at "pidgin" Spanish, but the pleasure is mutual. A surprising amount of English and near English is spoken throughout this region and it is rapidly increasing.

Little Theater Group Prepares For First Play

Rehearsals of 1-Act Comedy Will Begin at City Hall Monday

New London — The casting of characters for "It Happened Like This," 1-act comedy of the newly organized Little Theater group, was completed this week and rehearsals will be held at the regular meeting of the group at the city hall council chambers at 7:30 Monday evening. It was announced yesterday by Mrs. M. A. Ullrich, director.

The play will be presented as part of the "Varieties of 1938" benefit program which will be held at the Washington High school auditorium March 15 and 16. The show is sponsored by the Band Boosters and will be produced and directed by Mrs. Ullrich.

Theodore Knapstein has been chosen to play the part of a Jewish florist in the play. The plot involves a middle aged couple who have been engaged for 15 years.

Mrs. R. R. Holliday has been cast in the role of the woman and M. J. Meinhardt as the hard-headed business man. Mrs. Earl Webb will take a major role as a worker in the shop who turns matchmaker to bring the couple together. The fifth character, a rough, unromantic errand boy, will be played by Neil Hansen.

All members of the cast have dramatic ability and Mrs. Webb and Neil Hansen have had experience of recent years in high school successes.

In addition to the play the "Varieties" program will include a costume dance by the women's adult recreation class under Miss Alice Ziemer, a music concert by the high school band under M. S. Zahrt, a comedy skit by John Mulroy and Mrs. Oscar Nemschoff, ventriloquist and circus acts written by Mrs. Ullrich, a 2-piano duet by M. D. N. Stacy and Mrs. C. J. Fellner and many other acts now in the tentative stage.

The Little Theater group will meet at the city hall hereafter, Mrs. Ullrich announced.

Helms to Speak on National Defense

American Legion and Auxiliary to Hear School Superintendent

New London — H. H. Helms, superintendent of schools, will be guest speaker at a national defense program of the American Legion and auxiliary at the clubhouse Sunday evening. A program and social will follow a 6:30 pot-luck supper.

A skit will be presented by Mrs. R. R. Holliday, Mrs. Richard Gehre, Mrs. James B. Graham and Mrs. Ed Jagoditch. Several selections will be offered by the Washington High school boys' quartet.

Dr. F. S. Loss of the post will act as master of ceremonies. Mrs. M. A. Borchardt and Mrs. L. J. Manske are responsible for the program. All card games will be played at the social.

Members of the Norris-Spencer post and auxiliary, and their wives and husbands, respectively, have been invited to the event.

New London Society

New London — A fruit shower and card party for the benefit of the Community hospital will be held at the hospital building Monday afternoon and evening by the Hospital auxiliary. A 1:30 dessert luncheon will be served in the afternoon and play will begin at 8 o'clock in the evening, followed by lunch. The committee in charge is composed of Mrs. L. J. Polaski, Mrs. E. C. Jost, Mrs. Paul, Mrs. Ed Kleinbrook and Mrs. Milton Koebel.

The Women's Relief corps observed Washington's birthday with a short program at the Odd Fellows hall yesterday afternoon. Three phases of his life were reviewed in papers by Mrs. L. S. McGregory, Mrs. Irvin Darrow and Mrs. David Rickaby.

Two new members will be initiated into the corps at the next meeting March 11. Hostesses at the initiation luncheon and social will be Mrs. Walter Smith, Mrs. Edgar Brown, Mrs. Bert Haskell, Mrs. Harvey Greenlaw and Mrs. John Nugent.

A social followed the meeting of the American Legion auxiliary at the home of Mrs. Emil Gehre Thursday evening. Mrs. Oscar Nemschoff won the prize in five hundred and Mrs. Ed Jagoditch in bridge. Mrs. Otto Krueger was hostess to the auxiliary in two weeks.

The Tudafour club played at the home of Mrs. Frank Rice Thursday evening.

New London Office

News and circulation departments of the Appleton Post-Crescent are represented in New London by Alvin J. Brault, 103 E. Cook street. News items and orders for subscriptions may be left at that address or may be telephoned by calling 18. Papers missed by carriers will be delivered if complaint is made before 7 p. m.

Large Audience Enjoys 3-Act Comedy at School

New London — A crowd of more than 500 students and adults enjoyed the presentation of "American, Very Early," a 3-act comedy, by Troupe 119 of the National Thespian Honor Dramatic society at Washington High school last night.

Each member of the cast of 19 presented a fine performance, particularly the two leading characters, Winifred Proctor and Nippy Andrews, as played by Ruth Hanson and Audrey Dean. Audrey, a junior, was the only non-Thespian student in the play and through her performance gained eligibility to the troupe. She had only one week of practice after she was chosen to substitute for another who withdrew from the cast with rehearsals well under way. H. H. Brockhaus, dramatics instructor, directed rehearsals and supervised all phases of the production.

A bright spot in the play was the brief appearance of 9-year-old Robert Sawall, who acted as the rough, mischievous son of his high school sister, Ruth Sawall. Robert attends the fourth grade at the Emanuel Lutheran school.

Plays Carpenter Role
On the stage as frequently as the two principals was Alan Fostad as a floundering carpenter whose actions were more prominent than his lines. Robert Wilkinson played the perfect villager. Polley Hartquist and Maurice Levine took a prominent part as Victoria and Ezra Buzzer, a middle-class neighbor couple.

The leading male characters were taken by Harry Herres, as the husband interested in Nippy Andrews, and Patte Chegwain appeared in the role of a hardened antique dealer who offered valuable advice.

Supporting the cast in brief appearance in minor roles were Helen Schoenrock as a village girl; Ruth Sawall and Kathleen Smith as antique "lookers"; Mary Dawson, newly rich antique buyer; Robert Ketter, a slicker posing as a business partner in the racket; Robert Knapstein, as a collector; Robert Hutchison as a plumber; and Marjorie Lathrop, a maid for a very short time.

New Equipment
New stage backgrounds were constructed especially for the play by the manual arts department under A. F. Christ, instructor. A new main door was built and sliding windows, in regulation casings were installed on either side to replace the stationary curtained props used previously.

Production chairman were N. G. Promold of the faculty as advisor; Anita Brault, promoter; Edith St. George, properties; Patricia Egan, ticket sales; Harry Herres, advertising; Warren Spurr was stage manager and was assisted with sound effects and back stage work by Louis Poeppke and Richard Salter.

Music was furnished by members of the high school band under Director M. S. Zahrt.

Miss Evelyn Herres Is Guest at Farewell Party
New London — Mrs. A. J. Herres entertained at a farewell party for her daughter, Miss Evelyn Herres, Thursday evening. Miss Herres, who has been employed during the last year with the Hardware Mutual Casualty insurance company at Stevens Point, was transferred this week to the Texas branch of the company as supervisor of the accounting department at Dallas, Tex. She visited her parents here Thursday and left for Dallas yesterday morning. She graduated from New London High school in 1936 and attended Wausau Business college.

Guests at the party were Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Fisher, Edith and Marjorie Jagoditch, Vivian Huntley, Florence Voight, Katherine Klatt, Dorothy Eggers, Vera Hall, Genevieve Schoenhaar, Mary Jane Herres, Donald Herres, and Leo, Michael and Edward Halloran from Stephenville.

Zerrenner Funeral Will Be Held Monday
New London — Funeral services for Mrs. A. O. Zerrenner, 61, will be held at the Cline and Learman Funeral home at 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon. The Rev. H. P. Freeling of Antioch, former pastor at the Congregational church here, will conduct the services. Burial will be in Floral Hill cemetery. Bearers will be C. C. Seims, R. C. Dauterman, W. B. Viell, John Dickinson, E. C. Oestreich and G. A. Vandree.

Mrs. Zerrenner was born Nov. 24, 1876, at Chicago and came to New London about 40 years ago. She died at Glendale, Calif., last Saturday after a week's illness. Mr. and Mrs. Zerrenner had been vacationing in the west since December. The body arrived at New London last evening.

Pupils Give Recital at Parochial School
New London — Twenty-four music students at the Most Precious Blood school entertained honor pupils at a piano recital yesterday afternoon. Similar recitals are planned for each month in the future.

Edward Jagoditch was the only violin student in the group. Selections on the piano were played by Suzanne Gitter, Mary Huzzar, Jane Gruentzel, James Loss, Louis and James Stern, John Lorge, Delores McPeak, Edna Mae Rice, Geraldine Herres, Jean Brisco, Delores Gitter, Duane Reed, William Fitzgerald, Anna May Jagoditch, Barbara VanAlstine, William Sawyer, Evelyn Knapstein, Phyllis Jagoditch, Patricia and Donald Crain.

Volz Closes Grocery Store at New London
New London — A. W. Volz, 405 E. Beacon avenue, yesterday closed his grocery business in the Fairway store which he operated at the corner of N. Water street and St. John's place the last three years. The last of the store furnishings were removed yesterday. Volz said his plans for the future were indefinite but he will continue his residence here for some time.

The Friendly Eight Club met with Mrs. Ernest Wells yesterday afternoon. Mrs. Charles Palmer, Mrs. Ed Steingraber and Mrs. S. E. Thersens received the prizes. Mrs. Steingraber will be hostess in two weeks.

The Thursday Dinner club was entertained at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ben Hartquist this week. Five tables were present and prizes went to Mrs. Harold Zaig and Mrs. R. J. McMahon of Oshkosh. The Zaigs will serve next week.

Mrs. George W. Polzin will be hostess to the Women's Study club Monday afternoon. A short program will be held with Mrs. O. K. Ziebur giving a resume of "Buckskin Breaches" by Strong and Mrs. J. Pfeifer presenting a surprise topic.

The Neighborhood club met with Mrs. Earl Curry Thursday evening. Prizes went to Mrs. Minnie Hindes, Mrs. Lizzie Roloff and Mrs. Lottie Klechick. The group will meet again next week.

Second Round Tilts In Singles Tourney Will Begin Tonight

New London — Second round eliminations in the city singles championship bowling tournament will begin this evening at Prahls' South Side alleys. According to preference, others will roll off the matches tomorrow afternoon.

The pairings are decided last week are Hugo Bachman versus Dr. George Polzin; James Lasley versus Art Gottschalk; Pat Ostermeier versus Fritz Buelow; Keith Prahls versus Sylvester Stern.

Match games between two girls' teams from Clintonville and two from New London will be rolled at the South Side alleys starting about 1:30 Sunday afternoon, according to R. V. Prahls manager of the alleys.

Bordens	22

New London — The Royalton bowlers continued their drive for first place as they downed Maple Creek two games at Prahls' alleys last night and tied the losers for second place.

Leslie Rasmussen cracked a 211 game at 543 total to lead Ostrander to a 3-game victory over the All-Stars. Clarence Walker had a 188 line and 508 total.

Leonard Dernbach smashed a 551 series in games of 143, 212 and 196 for the Bordens team. The squad took two from Hortonia, the latter paced by Dutch Muth with a 500 total. Irvin Paul's 521 tally and Evan Jepson's 191 game topped the Bear Creek five in two wins over Lebanon. Elwood Hutchison upheld the losers with 466. Frank Woodberry's 497 total was far above the rest in the Royalton-Maple Creek matches.

New London Personals
New London — Miss Alice Mulroy returned Wednesday from a 3-month visit at Glendale, Calif., with Dr. and Mrs. H. G. Westphal.

Mrs. Roy Ryher, Chicago, arrived this week to visit several weeks with her sister, Mrs. J. Y. Potter.

Mrs. F. J. Pfeifer, in company with Mrs. W. H. Towne, of Hortonville, attended a meeting of the state board of the auxiliary to the Wisconsin State Medical society at Milwaukee Wednesday. Mrs. Pfeifer was seated as president of the Waupaca county auxiliary at a meeting at Clintonville Tuesday.

Mrs. Joe Olson, Hortonville, and Mrs. Louis Schmidt, Fremont, were admitted to Community hospital yesterday. Mrs. Myra Mix, Royalton, entered the hospital Thursday night.

Walter Olen to Address Business Women's Club
New London — Walter A. Olen, president of the Four Wheel Drive company at Clintonville, will be guest speaker at a 6:30 dinner meeting of the Business and Professional Women's club at Elwood hotel Monday evening. International night will be observed at the meeting.

Mrs. Emil Gehrke is chairman of the program and Miss Margaret Laird and Miss Florence Ruhnsm are making reservations.

Firemen Called Twice To August Behm Home
New London — The fire department made two calls to the August Behm home, 246 McKinley street, between 6:30 and 7 o'clock yesterday morning. A plugged chimney was the cause of the first call at 6:30 and firemen were called back 20 minutes later to complete the job of cleaning the flue.

Boy Scouts Have Court of Honor At Clintonville

Six Boys Enter Troop 23 In Ceremonies Held At Hotel

Clintonville — Boy Scout Troop No. 23 held a court of honor and program Thursday evening at the Helms hotel. A supper was served to 46 scouts, leaders, and committee members by mothers of the boys headed by a committee composed of Mesdames Howard Bovee, August Pinkowsky and Milford Etheridge.

Six tenderfoot scouts were admitted to the troop at a ceremony in charge of Floyd Hurley, court of honor chairman. The new scouts are Robert Ace, Donald Yankov, Douglas Rulick, John Stieg, Donald Hogan and Armand Hangartner. Second class awards were made to Willis Greb and George Zoch by John Buehrens, deputy commissioner of the Valley Council. Members of the troop put on a program of musical selections, stunts and scout songs.

Thirty-two scouts registered for Troop 23 for the ensuing year. This group is under the leadership of Lloyd Pinkowsky, scoutmaster, Edwin Karczewski and Ted Joswick, assistants. Patrol leaders are James Bohr, Joseph Baur, Harold Oik, Jr., and Howard Bovee, Jr. Members of the troop committee are John Tandy, chairman, August "Bud" Pinkowsky, Max Stieg, Howard Bovee, T. A. Patterson, F. D. Hurley, Clarence Zachow and C. S. Thomson.

The Congregational Missionary society met Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. W. H. Schmidt on N. Main street.

Greet Spring in Your Own Home Is Advice of Nehls

Wallpaper and Paint Headquarters Has Splendid Suggestions

Here is a suggestion worthy of your careful consideration, offered by the William Nehls Wallpaper and Paint Store, located at 224 W. Washington street. Why not "Greet Spring in your own home?" Before spring is over, you can, if you wish, be living in the type of home you have always wanted. The home you have dreamed about. Sounds impossible, but come to the Nehls headquarters and they will show you how easy it is.

For example, the interior of your home can be completely done over, giving new life and beauty to your living quarters. New wallpaper, painting, and redecorating of walls and woodwork, varnishing and painting the floors will go a long way in accomplishing this end. Change, freshness, and beauty, indicative of spring, are easily obtained in this way. The William Nehls Wallpaper and Paint Store offers its specialized services and products to accomplish these interior changes, regardless of what they might be, economically and in good taste. Stop in at the store and examine the new Imperial washable patterns and its glorious new Barce line of patterns. You will fall in love, they say, not only with the designs but with the unusually large line of enchanting colors.

If it is painting you are interested in, the Nehls firm offers you the famous Benjamin Moore line of quality paint. Nehls' skilled staff, of course, offers the best solution for using these superior paints and wallpapers in the most workmanlike manner.

Frequently, people make the mistake of using the initial price as a standard of price economy. That is wrong, the Nehls firm warns, because it is not the initial price which counts but the cost per year of the life of the paint whether it be for indoor or outdoor work. A cheap paint costs less than the famous Moore paints per gallon, perhaps, but takes more paint for proper coating, lasts about half as long, and is likely to require scraping before repainting. Benjamin Moore paints cost a little more but will last twice as long and requires less for adequate coverage. As in most things, so it is with paint, it pays to use quality.

In case you are wondering just how much painting to do this season and how far to go with your painting and papering plans, just stop in at the Nehls shop or telephone 452. You will get all the information you will need without any obligation.

Robert A. Schultz Has Much to Offer Builder of Homes

Remodeling and New Construction Plans Need Attention Now

The time of the year has arrived when it becomes necessary to give serious thought to the completion of your building or remodeling plans which you have perhaps been thinking about during these winter months. The annual nationwide early Spring building, remodeling, and repairing activity is just around the corner once more and homeowners will profit by giving added hours of thought to their plans and consulting reliable contractors, as to latest ideas in the various lines of work.

This is the best procedure for homeowners, believes Robert A. Schultz, 1228 W. Lawrence street, masonry and concrete contractor, for much time and wasted effort may be saved by talking over your plans with contractors directly interested in the carrying out of your plans. Remodeling and repairing activity, reminds Robert A. Schultz, not only means more comfort, coziness, and better living conditions but is also a profitable move in that greater resale value of your property is the ultimate outcome should you decide at some time or other to sell your property.

If you are interested in making changes and improvements on your property, planning to do any building, you will be well advised to consider the importance of selecting only reliable and experienced contractors. In the masonry or concrete contracting Robert A. Schultz has led the list for over 30 years in this vicinity, past customers say, of masterful masonry or concrete contractors. Many good examples of his work are, of course, in evidence throughout the city, offering sure proof of Robert A. Schultz' ability in this type of work.

He is not influenced by cheap and competitive bids in taking over a job, keeping always uppermost in his mind the fact that after all people are mostly interested in receiving good, quality, satisfactory work which is sure to stand the test of time. It is always the case of the best work and the best materials at the most reasonable prices which Mr. Schultz features. A call to 861 will give you any information you might desire about modernizing or repairing problems you may have in addition to information concerning any building problems.

Capitol Alumni Hear Dr. Barrows

Lawrence President Describes $3,000,000 Development Plan

Post-Crescent Washington Bureau Washington—Dr. Thomas N. Barrows, president of Lawrence college, explained the ten-year, $3,000,000 plan for expansion and remodeling of Lawrence building and campus at a meeting of Lawrence alumni here on Washington's birthday.

He and Mrs. Barrows were honored at dinner by the Washington group.

The program involves, Dr. Barrows said, development of the west end of the campus as the "women's campus," with men's dormitories now there changed into women's dormitories, and the east end as the men's campus, with Russell dormitory, and a "fraternity row" to be developed there.

Along the river will be tennis courts and an athletic field, across the river from the gymnasium.

The center of the campus will contain all classrooms and administrative offices, he explained.

In the first five years, he hopes $2,000,000 of the development can be completed.

Those attending the dinner included: Eleanor Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. Karl Trever, Dr. and Mrs. D. O. Kinsman, John M. Baer, Ethel Radtke and Raymond Zuehlke, all of Appleton; Jean Heath of Marinette; R. W. Hambrook, Helen Hecker, H. E. Miles, Ruth Penn, Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Hooper, Emma McDonald, and Mr. and Mrs. George Dunn, all alumni of Lawrence college.

The Dog Owner and His Dog

—BY ALLAN KERR

Perhaps some of the dog owning readers of this newspaper would like to answer the following letter from I. M. of Green Bay. Your dogmaster admits defeat.

Dear Mr. Kerr: I am an ardent reader of your column and find it very interesting. You have no doubt helped many owners with their dog problems; I wonder if you could help me solve this one.

I have a dog two years old that will not make friends with other dogs. He wants to fight with them all. How can I stop him from doing this without letting him get into a good scrap? I don't let him run the streets, but he gets plenty of outdoor exercise under the proper supervision. I enclose a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Yours truly, I. M.

In answering, we beat around the bush as follows:

Dear Friend:

In your recent letter you have presented a dog problem that, as yet, no one has been able to solve satisfactorily. It is doubtful if we will ever see the day that it is, although I guess we all live in hope that the time will sometime arrive when there will be peace among all the creatures of the earth.

The dog has been the friend of man for hundreds of years, but he still reverts back to the days of his savage state in the wilderness, when he had to fight for his mate, fight for his share of the kill, fight for his very existence, in fact.

You don't state the breed of your dog, but if he is like many of the writer's acquaintance, a trimming by another dog will not cure the habit and may, if allowed to go too far, cripple or kill one or the other.

Sincerely,

As with humans, so with dogs, some go around with a perpetual chip on their shoulder. How may this be cured? If anyone has a method, it should be passed along, for there are thousands of dog lovers waiting and hoping for just such information. Have you ever seen a dog slinking along behind his master? His head is hanging nearly to the ground and his eyes have a haunted, brow-beaten look. Perhaps constant beatings have "cured" this dog.

In the estimation of most of us, this poor, dejected, downcast creature is no longer a dog. All that remains is the shell that once housed a beautiful spirit of courage, loyalty and happy friendliness. In place of the rollicking, carefree picture of health and animation, which is our idea of a real dog, we have a creature crawling at heel, tail tucked between trembling legs, eyes stealing an occasional glance at the master he loves, hoping eventually to receive a word of something besides cross reproach. He is cured of fighting, and of everything else.

Dogs will fight for their food. If two or more are kennelled together, be sure that they have separate feeding dishes. Dogs fight for their homes and masters' property. Don't allow them to run into another dog's yard. Dogs fight for dominance. They soon learn who is boss in the kennel, but if one is particularly vicious, keep him apart.

Dog fighting matches are outlawed in every state and if there were no straps, and if everyone kept his disobedient dog on a lead, there would be very few serious canine battles. Dogs' natures and dispositions are influenced considerably by human conduct, and we are afraid that as long as there are dictators, Golden Gloves and battleships, there will also exist at least a desire for belligerence among the ranks of our closest animal friend.

The case will eventually land in the lap of the state supreme court, it has been indicated. The city of Waupaca began municipal acquisition proceedings three years ago. Two very important legal questions are involved in the case: Whether the private utility has the right to a jury verdict determining the necessity of municipal acquisition, and what property is subject to acquisition. In the Waupaca case the state and the private utility disagree on the amount of property comprehended in the local utility plant.

Wegner Child Dies at Home Near Clintonville

Clintonville — Jeanice, 4-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Wegner, died early Friday morning following a few days' illness at their home on route 2. Survivors are the parents and two older sisters, Laverne and Arlyle. Funeral services will be conducted at 2 o'clock Monday afternoon at St. Martin Lutheran church by the Rev. W. O. Speckhard.

Mother Take Care of Car? Sure, It's Simple When You Call on Firestone

Mother can now be sure that the family car is operating with good brakes, with proper lubrication and with fresh oil in the crankcase. She can make sure that the tires are properly inflated, that there is plenty of anti-freeze in the radiator and that the battery is carrying a sufficient charge for winter driving.

What's more, she can arrange for all these valuable services without wasting time at a garage! All she needs to do is drive to the Firestone Auto Supply & Service store at 700 W. College avenue (at the corner of Richmond street) and a courteous service man will note down the car's needs. She will then be driven to whatever destination in town she chooses — shopping, bridge, movies — and the car is taken back to the famous Firestone headquarters where all details are promptly and efficiently cared for and the car returned at the time specified.

This service costs nothing extra, and it has the distinct advantage of not tying the car up needlessly for periods of time when it is most needed.

Should it be inconvenient for any member of the family to come to Firestone, then Firestone will pick up the car, also at no extra cost, attend to it properly and return it when finished.

H. L. McAtee, manager of the Firestone store here, invites the motoring public to become better acquainted with the extra services, lower costs, and easy 12-pay budget plan available here.

Berliner Beer Has Qualities Besides Taste

Is Strength-Building and Pure Say Lovers of Fine Brew

Recognized, everywhere as the companion of good health, Berliner Style beer continues to grow in popularity and heads the list of favorites of many beer lovers. Because it is pure, nourishing, and rich in tonic values, Berliner Style beer has become an essential to those who guard their health. It is brewed, as you may easily guess, from the cream of the Wisconsin barley crop and from selected American and Bohemian hops. It is strength-building, as well as refreshing, admirers say, as well as a sensible and satisfying drink at any time.

You'll smile, too, Berliner friends, testify, once you have tried this famous brew. Old timers as well as younger folks really appreciate Berliner beer because it has brought back that old-time beer flavor. Brewed by an old-fashioned way, it has all the fine aromas of pre-prohibition beer and because it contains no young beer, no sugar or syrups are added, you can enjoy drinking all you want without fear of distress. Treat yourself to a glass or a bottle at your favorite tavern today. Once you have tried it you may be sure that you will always call for Berliner Style.

Make Berliner the "Beer of Quality," your beverage, ask for it whenever you are out and keep it on hand when you are home. Its many fine qualities and delicious taste will make you decide that Berliner beer is the beer for all occasions. You can reach the local distributors by calling 4626, Fred W. Kibbie Distributing Company, 115 S. State street. A prompt and efficient delivery service is maintained.

LaFollette Talks Over Campaign Plans With Aides

Congressional District Leaders in Conference With Governor

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau Madison—The elite of Wisconsin's Progressive party, the state central committee, met in Governor LaFollette's capitol office Thursday afternoon to warm up for its third state campaign in 1938.

The committee, consisting of five representatives of each congressional district and other members for the state at large, heard Governor LaFollette offer suggestions for discussion, suggestions how to take back to the home districts after the party rode into office in the 1936 elections.

One of those attending was John W. Reynolds of Green Bay, who is a member of the committee and a former attorney general.

Others included the chief state leaders, E. M. Rowlands, chairman, J. E. Kyle, secretary, and the state officers, Theodore J. Dammann, Sol Levitan, and Orland E. Koskoff.

Eight district members of the committee are Mrs. Lyman Fischer, two Mrs. A. B. Himes, Crandon; Reynolds; Mrs. Oscar Berg, Algoma; Samuel Sigman of Appleton. Tom Brown of Waupaca is one of the seventh district members.

Some of those attending reported that one of the principal discussion topics was the problem of keeping the CIO and AFL members of Wisconsin, now divided, joined as a political unit behind the Progressive ticket in the fall elections.

The meeting, which began with a luncheon and lasted most of the afternoon, was the first formal gathering since the party rode into office in the 1936 elections.

Get Comforts of Old Shoes, Looks Of New at Coppens

Shoe Rebuilders Use Advanced Factory Equipment in Work

The fitting of shoes has improved tremendously in the past few decades, but there is still something about the comfort of an old pair of shoes that makes most of us look longingly at them. But, comfort or not, we can't go around in disreputable footwear.

Right here is where Coppens Shoe Rebuilders come into the picture. This firm, operating in the rear of the Heckert building at 119 E. College avenue, has gained an outstanding reputation for making old, but comfortable, shoes into smart-looking footwear that still retains the sought-for foot ease.

To bring about this desired end, Coppens' work is done on special factory shoe equipment that produces splendid new-shoe results at no extra cost to the customer. The equipment is of the type not generally found in shoe repair shops and enables Coppens to turn out its superior brand of work with a high degree of efficiency and speed. It's not necessary to come downtown to have Coppens attend to your shoes either. A telephone call to 711 will bring Coppens' free delivery service to pick up the footwear and to return it when finished.

With spring not so far away, it's high time to check over the wardrobe and select the shoes that will be worn later on. Sending them to Coppens now means that they'll be ready to wear at the first break in winter. Meanwhile, winter footwear, which must necessarily be in good condition to protect your health, should be sent to Coppens as soon as it shows signs of considerable wear.

Shoe Rebuilders Use Advanced Factory Equipment in Work

The fitting of shoes has improved tremendously in the past few decades, but there is still something about the comfort of an old pair of shoes that makes most of us look longingly at them. But, comfort or not, we can't go around in disreputable footwear.

Right here is where Coppens Shoe Rebuilders come into the picture. This firm, operating in the rear of the Heckert building at 119 E. College avenue, has gained an outstanding reputation for making old, but comfortable, shoes into smart-looking footwear that still retains the sought-for foot ease.

To bring about this desired end, Coppens' work is done on special factory shoe equipment that produces splendid new-shoe results at no extra cost to the customer. The equipment is of the type not generally found in shoe repair shops and enables Coppens to turn out its superior brand of work with a high degree of efficiency and speed. It's not necessary to come downtown to have Coppens attend to your shoes either. A telephone call to 711 will bring Coppens' free delivery service to pick up the footwear and to return it when finished.

With spring not so far away, it's high time to check over the wardrobe and select the shoes that will be worn later on. Sending them to Coppens now means that they'll be ready to wear at the first break in winter. Meanwhile, winter footwear, which must necessarily be in good condition to protect your health, should be sent to Coppens as soon as it shows signs of considerable wear.

Rural School Students Cited for Attendance

Vincent Krahn, James and Thomas Buelow, Shirley Ronsman and Wilfred Sachs, pupils of the Golden Rule school in the town of Osborn, were neither absent nor tardy during the fourth 6-week period, according to the teacher, Miss Alice Green. Vincent Krahn placed high scholastically during the period.

A Washington's birthday program was given Tuesday at the school. The program was composed of songs, recitations, stories and dialogues and all the students took part.

Series for City Cage League Title To Begin Sunday

Brewer, Pantry Teams Will Clash in High School Gymnasium

Kaukauna—The climax of the city league basketball season will begin at 3:30 tomorrow afternoon in the high school gymnasium when the Mellow Brews, first half champs, meet the Pantry Lunch, second half winners, in the first of a two out of three game series for the city championship. The second game will be played on March 6 and the third, if necessary, on March 13. Preliminaries will be played at 1:30 and 2:30 between the Kaukauna girls team and Little Chute, and the Pulpmakers of the city league and the strong Gordon Benedict quintet from Green Bay.

The Lunchers will go into the contest a slight favorite over the Mellow Brews. The Brews were practically unbeatable the first half but during the last six weeks have shown little of the form that made them first half champs. The Lunchers, on the other hand, have closed the season with a rush, taking two straight from the Gustmans, last years titlists, to win the right to play the Brews.

Both teams rely more on making points of their own than playing a tight defensive game, and wide open battle is in prospect. The Pantry team is the high scoring five in the league, and the Brews are second in this regard. The strong point of the Brew attack is George Bloch, who has averaged more than ten points a game from his guard position. The Pantry five has Art Koehne, who rallied greatly to finish third in the individual scoring race after a poor start, and Don Dix who was fifth in pointmaking.

Catholic Youth Group To Present Play Sunday

Kaukauna—Primed for Sunday's performance at a dress rehearsal last night actors from the Holy Cross C.Y.O. awaited today for their presentation of "Dotty and Daffy," 3-act comedy, tomorrow in the parish hall. A children's matinee will be held at 2 o'clock and the main performance at 8:15.

Laughs will be the order of the day when the twelve players of the cast cavort in their comic antics during the numerous comedy scenes around which the story is built. The humorous situations begin when the servants of Mrs. Phyllis Travers, society widow, threaten to strike for back pay just as Mrs. Travers is expecting a visit from a wealthy widower whom she wants to marry.

Miss Caroline Kalista plays the part of the impetuous Mrs. Travers, who runs the entire gamut of emotions as she finds herself without money and anxious to marry a rich husband.

Play Title Roles
Dotty and Daffy, for whom the play was named, are really Dorothy and Daphne Travers, daughters of Phyllis. Miss Rita Esler and Miss LaVerne Hennes play the parts of the two young girls, who plot and scheme with Mamma to lead a good meal ticket down the middle aisle with her.

Scheming with them and sometimes against them are Jimmie and Freddie Rand, played by Clarence Wilson and Orrin Romanesko, heart interest to Dotty and Daffy.

Herman Maes, a veteran of the amateur stage in Kaukauna, will do another of his varied characterizations in the part of Paxton, fifty and a gay dog with the ladies. Francis Wagner takes the part of Jack Belmont, another society man who courts the girls.

Comedy for the show will center to a great extent around the three servants, each with a different foreign accent. Charles Weber will be the English butler; Miss Helen Hopfensperger, the Swedish maid; and Miss Florian McCabe, the Irish cook.

Miss Virginia Goetzman will play the part of Miss Hester Harley, a straight-laced spinster aunt of Phyllis. Hester is a man hater, and she storms all over the Travers household when she visits it unexpectedly.

Lang in Cast
James W. Lang, who is directing the play, will take the part of Hugh Rand, South American business man and uncle of Jimmie and Freddie. While Lang has had a wide variety of stage background in plays at St. Norbert college and in the Appleton Little Theatre, this is his first appearance at the parish stage.

The production staff of the show put final touches to their work today as the stage was given a last going over for the show. Milton Vandehy and Monroe Romanesko had charge of the staging, and Romanesko also took care of properties.

Costumes were prepared under the direction of Miss Mary Renn. Make-up is being done by the Green Room artists, Kaukauna High school make-up group, under the direction of their adviser Miss Ethelyn Mandran and Miss Alice Mae Whittier, of the Appleton Little Theatre.

Music between the acts will be played by a string ensemble from the high school. The group will include Beata Aufreiter, Mary Alice Flanagan, cellos; Mary Jane Schermitzler, piano; Ena Richards, Arlene Schomisch, and William Siebers, violins.

New Books Arrive At Public Library
Biography of Madame Curie in Group Given by Carnegie Endowment

Kaukauna—The second group of books given to the Kaukauna public library by the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace has arrived at the library, Miss Bernice M. Happer, librarian, announced yesterday.

The group includes "Madame Curie," by Eve Curie, "Allah De-throned," by Linke, "India Reveals Herself," by Basil Mathews and "Circling the Caribbean," by Thomas Marvel.

The first is the biography of Marie Curie, discoverer of radium and twice winner of the Nobel prize. It is written by her youngest daughter, and is the first full length biography of the famous scientist.

"Allah De-throned" is the story of a young German girl who explored Turkey with but a few dollars in her pocket, relying on her ability to make friends to present a review of present day life in towns, the attitude of youth, the position of women, art, religion, politics and industry in Turkey.

Mathews' volume give an impression of India as the author sees it from Indian statesmen and British administrators, from Christian missionaries, from native leaders of art and culture, and from educators in schools.

"Circling the Caribbean," relates travel through that area on the back of a Jamaica mule, by dory, motorboat, train, bus and airplane.

Shipping Association To Hold Annual Meeting

BRITAIN STOOD AT THE CROSSROAD

The bitter flare-up between Captain Eden and Prime Minister Chamberlain over Britain's foreign policy has shocked and shaken the world.

The Labor Party, in apparent support of Captain Eden, may be taking a position it will ultimately regret since Labor is predominantly peaceful and Eden's policy may have been the straight road to the battle field.

The difficulty with all situations of this character is to analyze them coolly, uninfluenced by a score of reasons that may be on the horizon and yet remain immaterial to the immediate controversy.

The trouble in democracies is that their scorn of tyrants, sometimes blinds them to the fact that the people living in tyrannies are entitled to certain rights.

Britain, France and Japan wrested colonies from Germany twenty years ago. Their title to these colonies is not only built upon force but was taken in defiance of professions of self-determination for all peoples.

Yet, irrespective of these immediate colonies it would be a great misfortune to misjudge the possible policies that Prime Minister Chamberlain may have in mind, and, as we read between the lines, policies that may do more for peace than all the leagues and pacts and treaties ever written.

Is it beyond the realm of reason that the Conservative leader in Britain is going to make an experiment never made before, a costly experiment in both material and spiritual considerations, and yet less costly than war, a concession of sovereignty over lands and people in the conviction that this tension may be lessened and war averted?

If we put aside for the time being our prejudices against the form of government prevailing in Italy and Germany and permit our honest feelings for the Italian and German peoples to become predominant would we not likely sympathize deeply with the predicament of great, energetic and highly intelligent masses of people bound and restricted within narrow territorial limits while others such as Britain holds sway over lands so extensive she cannot expect to use them for centuries to come?

The immediate reaction may not be favorable to Prime Minister Chamberlain. His opponents will say that if Hitler and Mussolini be conceded anything they will be back tomorrow for more. Perhaps. And perhaps not.

Who shall say whether the form of government prevailing in Germany and Italy was not materially caused by an unnatural constriction of the people and that when such cause is removed, the tyrant, its poisonous flower, will wilt?

That, at least, must be Chamberlain's hope.

WORSE WARS

"The life of the modern soldier," wrote Dr. Samuel Johnson in 1771, "is ill represented by heroic fiction. War has means of destruction more formidable than the cannon and the sword. Of the thousands and ten thousands that perish, a very small part ever felt the stroke of an enemy; the rest languished amidst damps and putrefaction; pale, torpid, spiritless and helpless; gasping and groaning and welmed in pits or heaved into the ocean without notice."

"Thus is a people exhausted for the most part with little effect. The public perceive an increase of debt, and at the conclusion are we recompensed for the death of multitudes and the expense of millions but by contemplating the sudden glories of contractors and commissaries whose equipages shine like meteors and whose palaces rise like exhalations."

War has changed little since then, except to grow worse. The cost now runs into billions instead of the millions he named. The slaughtered include helpless non-combatants behind the lines, women, children, the aged. The destruction includes colleges, libraries, hospitals, museums, homes and churches. In fact, there are few fortresses to be captured or destroyed in modern warfare. The institutions of civilization provide the chief targets for hostile bombs.

Why? There are no good reasons.

WASTED INTELLIGENCE

Most of us have plenty of intelligence. Whether we are successful or unsuccessful, happy or unhappy, depends largely on how we use it, according to Dr. Wayland F. Vaughan, professor of psychology at Boston University. We can use it constructively, for important things, or fritter it away.

"Intelligence," he says, "is the inborn capacity to achieve a given end. Unfortunately intelligence is often devoted to stupid ends, and it is often nullified in its social usefulness by emotions which interfere with clear thinking, and by the failure to discriminate between good and bad ends, and between the important and unimportant."

That sounds like one of old Socrates' dialogues, aiming to show people that they really have plenty of freedom, if they would only dig it up and use it.

It may make some people feel that they've been wasting a lot of intelligence on ball scores and bridge and what he said and what she said.

MORE PAY PER YEAR

It is agreed by everybody that nothing is more important, for employment and business recovery, than revival of the building industry. It is also agreed by realists that, at least in the first stage of efforts to revive this industry, it may be desirable to modify wage scales along with the price of materials.

It is well, therefore, that the Wagner housing bill, as passed by congress, does not seek to "freeze" wages at the prevailing union scale per hour. Such freezing, there is reason to fear, might jeopardize the whole movement, retarding revival of the building industry for years and imposing new hardships on a group of skilled workmen who have already endured much hardship. Many of the workmen see this.

There is no desire in any responsible quarters to reduce the earnings of building workers. The desire, on the contrary, is to increase their incomes, and at the same time make house-construction cheaper, until it can no longer be said that workmen "can't afford to live in the houses they build."

This would be no miracle. Many financiers, builders and workmen agree that it might be accomplished by guaranteeing so much work per year, at a lower rate per hour than many union scales now require, that the employees would be employed more continuously and have a higher annual income. Present building wage scales, in most areas, have been based for many years on expectation of a limited amount of work.

Here is something calling for sincere cooperation of workers, employers and government.

VIRGIN ISLANDS PLAYGROUND

The Virgin Islands once referred to by a distinguished American as a "poorhouse," have emerged some distance from the depths of depression. Though they are not yet self-supporting, their revenues are increasing and their deficit decreasing. Their original industries—rum, bay rum and sugar—are reviving. Many improvements have been made.

New hope and opportunity are found in another line. A club has been proposed for people who can afford to pay an initiation fee of $1,000. "The principal idea," says the club's prospectus, "is to provide all the pleasantness of life and none of the unpleasantness." The plan is to locate the club on 900 acres on St. John, one of the islands. The attractions offered, besides "getting away from it all," are fine climate, almost no insects and flies, a soft, steady trade wind for yachting, no tidal problems—the rise and fall being six to ten inches—and the romance of such place names as Rendezvous Bay, Whistling Bay, Privateer Bay, Chocolate Hole and Mermaid's Chair.

One such rich man's club wouldn't solve all the problems of all the islands in the group. But the attractions listed would prove equally delightful for thousands of tourists of modest means who would doubtless make generous use of all vacation facilities provided for them. And tourists make a profitable industry in themselves.

Opinions Of Others

ARE WE ASHAMED?
Our government, says a Washington dispatch, may have to pay upwards of a million dollars to a Frenchman, M. Robert Esnault-Pelterie, for infringement of his patent rights in an airplane steering device, the joystick, which was used by our planes in the World war.

We are sincerely grieved, not only at the revelation that we owe such a debt, but at the exposure of our thoroughness in incurring it. We used our own men in the war and we used our money, and the planes also were ours. Through what inadvertence did we slip up in the matter of the small gadget under consideration? That we fought the French war with anything belonging to the French is a piece of news which must come as a grave shock to every sensitive Frenchman, as it will, undoubtedly, to every proud American.

We trust that the government will pay the sum due at once, with back interest, thus expunging the stain from our national honor and amending the insult to a pure-minded friend.

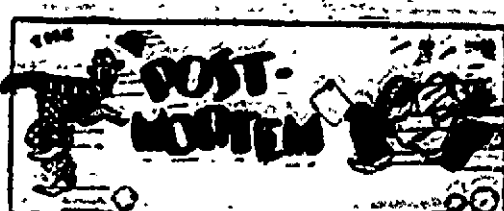

The French government, which owes us several billion dollars on account of the war, could of course assume our obligation to its citizen. But any suggestion along that line would be so tactless that we shrink from advancing it. In fact, we blush with shame even to have thought of such a thing.—The Detroit News.

A NAVY MISTAKE

A navy department's press room at Washington has mimeographed and sent out to newspapers a radio speech by General Hugh S. Johnson in support of President Roosevelt's rearmament program.

That, it seems to us, was a mistake. General Johnson, speaking as a private citizen, had every right to support the president's program, to argue that stronger defense is necessary, and to maintain that it will help us to avoid war rather than increase our danger of getting into war. As a matter of fact, we agree with him on those points.

But for the navy department to distribute copies of the general's speech at public expense is a different matter. The speech, delivered three days before the mimeographed sheets

A Verse for Today

By Anne Campbell

IN BETTY'S MEMORY

Like a sweet breeze that would not linger long,
She used to dance into a noisy room,
And turn all 'tis discordance into song,
Her girlhood was in its first lovely bloom.
Her hands had scarcely threaded life's high loom.

Morning came in with laughter and glad feet,
She was so gay, how could we dream that she
Was carrying in her young soul the beat
And the true promise of Infinity.

Her soft brown eyes are stars of memory:
Dear little girl who found a swifter way
To happiness than any we have trod,
There must be joy in Paradise today.

THE WEAKLING

Personal Health Talks

BY WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.
Noted Physician and Author

DOCTOR DUCK

Many times I have cited here and recommended as the best textbook available Rosenau's "Preventive Medicine and Hygiene," published by D. Appleton-Century Company and obtainable in all public libraries. It is still the best textbook in my opinion. So the intelligent reader will not assume the comments in this article have any personal significance.

The book is a 1,500-page volume, which sets the purchaser back ten bucks—rather too much for a layman's health library. The publishers of the fifth edition (1927) gave me a copy, for the public welfare. But when the present sixth edition came out, the public welfare was no longer in danger, so I had to dig down for the ten bucks for my copy. I say it is the sixth edition—and I say it is the LAST edition—so far as I am concerned. I feel sadly bored. This LAST edition is not frankly dated on the title page, as were earlier editions; but the work is dated passe so far as my interest goes. Why can't professional textbook makers gracefully retire from active work when they have attained retiring age—functional age, not chronological? Why do they permit their names to be exploited by the commercial ambition of publishers long after the spell of the name has been forgotten?

Altho the wording of the chapter on "Common Colds"—whatever they may be the author gracefully avoids defining—is changed in minor particulars, some few sentences of mere bla-bla deleted, the LAST edition of Rosenau is as quaint as was the first edition. I defy any one of sound mind to read what this formerly great textbook says about the effects of drafts, colds and the like, and then tell me was the author's theory, belief or teaching is. What Rosenau's work needed was not revision but retirement.

For example, not a word or hint in the book about the usual mode of infection with respiratory infection—that is, via conversational spray. No medical or health authority who acknowledges the "risk of persons coughing or sneezing directly in one's face" can now fail to acknowledge the associated risk of persons politely talking in one's face. The only difference is that the spray of open-face coughing or sneezing is invisible to ten or twelve feet, whereas the spray given off from mouth and nose during ordinary quiet conversation is mostly composed of invisibly fine droplets and carries less than five feet.

The big shots in sanitation and public health had better become reconciled to the growing popular enlightenment, and readjust their fancies and teachings to conform with modern views. The day of Doctor Duck and Professor Dodge is done. People are fed up with the old medical humors. Public health teachings are effective only when they contain good common sense.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Just Plain Old Iodin

For a long time have wanted to ask what you think of using So. S. S. soluble iodine for your iodine ration? (M. V. C.)

Answer: No. I think plain old tincture of iodine (iodine to old timers) is as soluble and as satisfactory in all respects as any special preparation. To adolescents or adults who are prematurely aging, pale, gloomy, I will be glad to send instructions for "Taking an Iodin Ration." Enclose a three-cent stamped envelope bearing your address.

Women Driving

Some doctors tell me it is all right for an expectant mother to drive an automobile. Others say she should not drive after the fourth month.

Answer—I know of no reason why she should not carry on as usual.

Sciatia
At the age of 50 had sciatia rheumatism. Found I had five pulpless teeth in my mouth, but none of them ever bothered me and all looked all right. After spending a good deal of money and time on treatment without benefit I finally had the dead teeth removed, and in about six months my trouble disappeared. We all read your stuff—it serves as a guide to go by. (C. W. M.)

Answer—Thank you. All I know is that some excellent dentists insist that pulpless teeth are not "dead" teeth and may serve a useful purpose for years without detriment to health. Other excellent dentists insist that Pulpless teeth are not "dead" teeth, to health and should never be permitted to remain in the mouth. If I had a pulpless tooth I'd leave the question to my own dentist's judgment.

Your Birthday

"FISCES"

If February 27 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 10:15 a. m. to 12:15 p. m., from 2:15 to 4:15 p. m., and from 8:15 to 10:15 p. m. The danger periods are from 6:15 to 10:15 a. m., from 6:15 to 8:15 p. m., and from 10:15 p. m. until midnight.

A desire to say things in a confidential whisper will be responsible for many persons' being regarded as nuisances this day. Any suggestion that a private conversation is being carried on, when other people are present, certainly will be construed as unpardonable rudeness. Sound is apt to be a soothing or disturbing influence, and is likely to be the cause of good or bad humors. The spirit of forgiveness must prevail this day. By making a surmise, regarding a matter in which you are vitally interested, you may get someone to admit that you are correct. Fore-sightness apparently will help make the coming week a successful one in many respects. Married and engaged couples, and those who have yielded to Cupid's power, will find it will take very little to arouse jealousy this day, and that to do so deliberately will be extremely foolish.

If a woman and February 27 is your birthday, you ought to be capable of successfully matching your wits against anyone's. Your ability to advance logical reasons and to refute arguments probably will be flatteringly recognized. You are, most likely, too conscientious to take an unfair advantage of anyone, and for this reason you should be careful that unscrupulous individuals do not trick you. Through some stroke of good fortune and your creative work you may find yourself abundantly supplied with money. As a dietitian, physician, actress, radio entertainer, author, real estate or insurance agent you have a chance of meeting with phenomenal success. Through a happy matrimonial alliance many joys seem destined to come to you. The child born on February 27, has generally an unusual amount of self-assurance and a delightful personality. During the advanced period of this youngster's youth some worthwhile talent is likely to be discovered, and, if encouraged, may result in a vast amount of good.

If a man and February 27 is your natal day, your finer qualities must overcome your weak ones, before you can reach the goal of your desires. Through journalism, engineering, scientific research work, law, chemistry, medicine, the state, pulpit or lecture platform your name might become nationally known.

The Pension Ordinance

Editor Post-Crescent—At the last meeting of the Kaukauna common council, a matter of much importance to the taxpayers was presented in the form of an ordinance to abolish a former ordinance in regard to pensions for the police department. This old ordinance, among other things, contains a clause whereby a policeman can retire after 22 years of service on half pay. After his demise his widow is to receive one-third of same and in case of her death, the children until the age of sixteen. The clause about the children will be of some help to the taxpayer, as the first three to retire will not affect this, they not having children of proper ages to qualify, thereby effecting the saving. According to figures given, one retired member only paid in about $108, and the last year drew out a monthly check for $75, or $900 a year. He is not listed as unemployed, and is far from needing any aid, as do a number of our taxpayers, who have been out of employment for some time and don't know where to turn, to get money to pay their taxes, and to keep the roof over their heads for the few remaining years they are with us.

It must be a poor ordinance, and still poorer judgment on the part of the aldermen to expect those who have no income to contribute to those who have. Nevertheless, the seven votes cast against the repeal of this ordinance compels us to continue to pay whether we are in a position to do so or not.

Immediately a resolution was introduced which I think was of even greater importance than the ordinance matter, a resolution to let the taxpayers use their own judgment in this matter, through a referendum vote, at the coming election. These same seven employees of the taxpayer voted "No" again. After much thought and discussion, I can only come to the conclusion that when ever we hire anyone to do anything for us in public affairs we give up the liberty of telling them how or what we want done. In the case of one alderman, I understand he voted "No," because of a personal feeling against one who voted "Yes." If aldermen are voting on questions as vital to us as this one is on their own personal grievances, all the more so should it be left to the people to decide. Some of the older aldermen, who have been there for a number of years, should have had the good judgment to know that the proper

A Bystander In Washington

BY PRESTON GROVER

Washington — It is getting these days so a person can hardly stick his face in the Senate or House restaurants without somebody poking a free sample of some home-state pride under his nose.

For a long time the only regular contribution of something free to eat, was the strawberries which Senator Townsend of Delaware brought along every spring from his ocean-side farm. They were luscious strawberries, and nobody thought to challenge the priority of the treat by offering something claimed to be better and finer from South Carolina or Paducah.

But along came Idaho (no respecter of priorities) this winter and blankeeted Congress knee deep in potatoes. Potato eating contests were held in the House restaurant, and everybody was happy except Maine and Representative Clarke of Idaho. Clarke saw the news play on the story stolen by Representative White, who comes from the northern district of Idaho, which produces only one potato where Clarke's district produces a hundred.

Grapefruit And Cheese

Maine threatened to retaliate with more potatoes from famed Aroostook county, but so far as we know it never did on a large scale. That was not the end, by any means. Senator Byrd came forward with some Virginia apples from his Winchester estate, and Florida and California brought in oranges and grapefruit in such profusion that page boys were carrying them around the hallways in clusters to feed their favorites among the clerks.

Even that was to bring no peace. Wisconsin for a long time has had a priority on the Senate restaurant cheese shelves with a paper-yellow cheese having a flavor that spoke of willowy bends along the creek and grassy woods and butterfies. Not content to let a good northwoods state wear its laurels, Senators Wagner and Copeland of New York suddenly confronted the Senate restaurant public with samples of cheese from that state of the sparkling lakes, skyscrapers and tooth-pick shop whistles.

Each serving was accompanied by a pamphlet which lauded New York state's manufacturing, artistic and commercial prowess, and then said of its cheese:

"It is not generally known that our state also leads the nation in the production of three fine cheeses."

Wisconsin's Revenge

That was only a come-on for Wisconsin. In a letter which came today, said Senator Duffy of Wisconsin, "the members of the Senate will be able to sample some of the fine cheese produced from the greatest dairy and cheese state in the nation—Wisconsin."

We can't tell you when or where it may end. Some months ago Representative Ferguson of Oklahoma, a cattle baron in his own right, arose in the House to protest that Maryland and the Chesapeake country in general were getting too much of a play on the House restaurant with seafoods from pickled shrimp to green turtle soup. He was tired of it, said he, and he wanted an occasional steak listed on the menu, a steak nurtured on the western plains where men are men and eat their AAA benefit checks raw.

He didn't say quite that but he definitely left the impression that one of these days he might lead a prime white-face steer out on the House floor slaughter it before the eyes of admiring members and broil choice cuts over a bonfire on the speaker's rostrum.

way to settle this matter was to turn it over to the taxpayers to vote on.

This would cause the taxpayers to awaken to their duties as taxpayers. They would discuss the matter with fellow taxpayers and vote on their own convictions, not because of a personal spite or any other personal reason.

According to the vote of these seven employees, it would seem as if the taxpayers were not capable of running their own business. Perhaps we are not in some instances, but where they take away the last liberty, namely, the right to vote on questions of importance to themselves, it certainly looks to the interested taxpayer that the end has been reached at last. I suppose next we will have to salute these gentlemen with a "Heil Hitler," or we will be cast into the dungeons to meditate on the good things to be gained by dictatorship, as compared to being a liberty-loving citizen of a country for which our forefathers gladly shed their blood. Question No. 1, Have we any blood to shed for the few liberties we have left?

I would like to see a pension plan, patterned along the line of the Teachers' State Retirement fund. This would be an ideal set-up, including all policemen in the state. We would contribute our mite to this without argument.

But to retire a member after 22 years of service, when his age may be from 47 to 55 years, and to have them secure other employment does not seem fair—and is not fair, despite any arguments to the contrary.

I quote some figures to show what happens to this kind of a set-up. $75 per month equals $900 per year. In ten years this equals $9,000. In case of death, his wife would receive, if she survives him by 10 years, another $6,000, making a total of $15,000 paid out by the taxpayers for a return of $150, being one per cent of salary deducted, and 22 years of employment with a total wage of $35,200. In a few years, you can multiply this by three, as two more will be eligible for pensions, and this would equal three times $15,000, or $45,000. For what? Figure it out, and you will want to leave this up to your aldermen to vote on, with their personal grievances.

Favor Treaty With Canada to Protect Fishing in Lakes

Officials of Eight States Send Resolution to Roosevelt

Detroit—(AP)—A resolution appealing to the federal government to enter into a treaty with Canada to preserve commercial fishing in the Great Lakes was forwarded today by officials of eight states bordering on the Great Lakes.

The resolution was adopted yesterday at an international conference of lake state officials, representatives of the federal government, and delegates from the province of Ontario. The conference was called by the council of state governments to formulate uniform regulations governing commercial fishing in the lakes.

Termining the depletion of lake fish a problem which seriously threatens the vital economic interests in a wide area adjacent to the lakes, the conference called upon the federal government to establish an international board of inquiry which would recommend a treaty guaranteeing conservation of Great Lake fisheries.

12-Man Board
The conference set up a 12-man board to follow its proceedings through the state department in Washington and tentatively agreed to a program presented by the Michigan delegation which would set up stringent regulations to end the continued decline of Great Lake fishing production.

The Michigan plan, which the committee will seek to have incorporated in the American-Canadian treaty, would set up stringent regulations between Canada and America guaranteeing uniform methods of mesh measurements, the proper size mesh to prevent the taking of undersized fish, a close season during the spawning periods, the authority to regulate the amount and kind of gear used by fishermen, authority to control movements of fishermen, enforcement of regulations, complete statistics of all fishing activities, well organized research, and rigid control of marketing conditions.

Seek Uniform Laws
At the same time, delegates from the lake states moved to formulate uniform regulations in the eight states which border the Great Lakes. The same committee which will push the Canadian-American treaty was given authority to take appropriate steps to assist states in vigorous action to conserve the fisheries.

The committee appointed at today's session is composed of Kenneth M. Kunkel, of the Indiana Conservation commission; George A. Schroeder, speaker of the Michigan House of Representatives; George Weaver, superintendent of the Minnesota Bureau of Fisheries; W. Allan Newell, chairman of the New York subcommittee on conservation; Lawrence W. Woodell, conservation commissioner of the Ohio Department of Agriculture; P. H. Hartman, of the Pennsylvania Board of Fish Commissioners; Henry O. Schowalter, Wisconsin Cooperation Commission; Commissioner Frank T. Bell of the federal department of commerce; Joseph T. Keating, department of state, Washington; H. H. Mackay, representative of the provincial government of Ontario; Henry W. Toll, executive director of the council of state governments, and a representative of the Dominion of Canada to be selected by the committee.

Hoover said that as a result of information furnished by Rumrich, Glaser was taken into custody and a confession obtained from him substantiating Rumrich's story.

It was further revealed, said Hoover, that Rumrich had obtained from Glaser certain air corps confidential codes which were forwarded through secret channels to a foreign government. He said Miss Hoffman when arrested had in her possession coded letters indicating the receipt of these codes by a foreign secret agent, and also money to pay Glaser and Rumrich for the codes.

Extension of Tax Payment Can't be Made by Affidavit

No provision for an extension of time for payment of real estate taxes by affidavit has been made for this year by the state legislature, Miss Marie Ziegenhagen, Outagamie county treasurer, has been informed by Attorney General Orland S. Loomis, Madison. The county treasurer has been receiving inquiries daily concerning payment by affidavit.

Unpaid real estate taxes will be returned delinquent by March 22, Miss Ziegenhagen said. Part payments of $10 or more on delinquent taxes will be received by the county treasurer and a charge of eight-tenths of 1 per cent from Jan. 1 will be charged.

The sale of delinquent tax certificates will take place on the second Tuesday of June, Miss Ziegenhagen, said.

Becker Wins City Ping-Pong Title

Shebilske Boys Champion; Wonser, Becker Victors in Doubles

Henry Becker defeated Orville Wonser 21-18, 21-17, and 21-13 for the men's singles title in the finals of the city ping-pong championship last night at the Y.M.C.A.

Lawrence Shebilske won from Carleton Powers in the finals of the boys singles 21-14, 21-23, 21-13, and 22-20.

In the men's doubles, Wonser and Becker defeated John Stuedel and James Gerrits 21-19, 18-21, 21-17, and 21-13.

Before meeting Shebilske for the finals in the boys singles, Powers defeated Hugh Wagner 21-18, 21-14 and beat Warren Choudoir 21-15, 21-23.

The champions in the various brackets of the tournament which opened Tuesday night of this week are as follows: girls singles, Helen Lewis; girls doubles, Helen Lewis and Ethel Melcher; boys singles, Lawrence Shebilske; boys doubles, Lawrence Shebilske and Warren Choudoir; men's singles, Henry Becker; men's doubles, Henry Becker and Orville Wonser.

Labor Union Would Oppose Merger of Two Railroad Firms

Washington—(AP)—A railway labor union yesterday noted with interest that it intended to oppose any proposal to merge the Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific and Chicago and North Western railroads.

Possibility of a merger often has been discussed, but no definite proposal has been advanced.

George W. Weaver, recording secretary, Railway Machinists Lodge No. 234 of Milwaukee, wrote Senator Duffy (D-Wis.) that members were "gravely concerned over the proposed consolidation" of the two railroads, both now in bankruptcy.

Duffy sent Weaver's letter to the interstate commerce commission which is studying the proposed merger. He asked "deferral of action" until the union could be heard in opposition.

Coalition Movement Outlined by Catlin
Mark Catlin, Jr., temporary chairman of the coalition movement in Outagamie county, outlined the purposes of the plan before a meeting of the Outagamie County Union Party club last night at the courthouse. All political parties may join the movement which will support candidates for the five principal state offices this fall. Organization in the county will take place at a meeting to be held sometime next month, Catlin said. About 50 persons attended the meeting.

Catlin said the coalition is designed to break the political hold of La Follette in the state and reviewed the meetings at Madison and Stevens Point at which the movement was launched.

Decipher Messages

Through the use of this key, he said, the F. B. I. agents were able to decipher certain messages sent through these confidential channels. Hoover said the communications will undoubtedly result in the arrest of other individuals in connection with the same case.

Hoover asserted that it was further revealed through questioning Rumrich that the same secret agents were interested in obtaining the aid of Rumrich's brother, who is now living in a foreign country.

When questioned concerning his attempt to obtain the 50 blank passports Hoover said Rumrich confessed that he had been instructed to get them for use of various secret agents to permit those agents to enter other European countries as American citizens.

Hoover said the United States attorney had authorized prosecution of Rumrich, Glaser and Miss Hoffman on charges of espionage and they would be arraigned today before the United States commissioner for the Southern district of New York.

Hoover explained later that Rumrich did not call in person when he attempted to obtain the fifty passports posing as Secretary Hull, but used the telephone.

Bay State Democratic Slate Ignores Lieutenant Governor, J. L. Lewis' Aid

Harrisburg, Pa.—(AP)—Endorsement of a Pennsylvania Democratic primary slate minus the name of Lieutenant Governor Thomas Kennedy stirred speculation today as to the next move of John L. Lewis.

The Committee for Industrial Organization chairman demanded repeatedly in recent weeks that the state's New Deal political machine find a place for Kennedy, one of Lewis' lieutenants as secretary-treasurer of the United Mine Workers of America.

But the Democratic state committee, endorsing a slate for the May 17 primary yesterday, ignored Lewis' wishes.

Moving swiftly and without a dissenting vote, the committee gave its approval to Charles Alvin Jones, Pittsburgh attorney, for governor.

Others endorsed were Governor George H. Earle for United States senator, State Senator Leo C. Mundy of Luzerne county for lieutenant governor, and Thomas A. Logue of Philadelphia for reelection as secretary of internal affairs. Earle already has made his announcement.

Two other Democrats already are in the race for the gubernatorial nomination without organization support—Attorney General Charles J. Margiotti, who campaigned for the Republican nomination four years ago and then switched to Governor Earle's cabinet; and William McNair, fiddle-playing former mayor of Pittsburgh.

Rochester, Ind.—There was an epidemic of colds—and a lot of dissatisfaction—among 40 elephants at a circus here today.

Sally, largest of the herd, developed a cough yesterday. A veterinarian prescribed three pints of whiskey in a bucket of water.

Today, keepers said, all the other elephants were coughing.

Schneider Gives Figures on Jobs For Government

889,500 on Federal Pay Roll During December, He Finds

Washington—(AP)—The Hill-Shepard bill, designed to take the profits out of war, probably will come to the house floor next week.

It faces the united opposition of the Wisconsin Progressives unless a tax feature is included in the measure. Representative Withrow (P-Wis.) has suggested to the committee that a 95 per cent tax on incomes of manufacturers of armaments and implements of war be put in the bill.

If the bill comes out of committee without that feature, Withrow says he will attempt to insert it from the floor, but this course, house members say, is contrary to house rules and would be overruled on a point of order.

Labor's Nonpartisan league has come out against the measure, terming it one that "would not take the profits out of war but would shackle labor."

Cites Large Pay Roll
During December the government employed numbered 889,550. This called for a pay roll of $137,217,360, says Representative Schneider (P-Wis.).

"This large number of federal employees is somewhat surprising in view of the statements from the administration that the emergency forces have been reduced by 100,000 or more since last August," Schneider said. "Adding the forces of the regular army, of the navy, and of the marine corps brings the present grand total of employees of the federal pay roll up to almost 1,200,000 persons."

Birthday Party Held At Leeman Dwelling
Leeman—Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Carpenter entertained a group of relatives and friends at a dinner at their home Sunday in honor of the birthday anniversary of the former's mother, Mrs. Alice M. Carpenter.

Guests included Mr. and Mrs. Norman Winterfeldt and daughter Roberta of Clintonville, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Taubel and daughter Viola Mae and sons Raymond and Rodney, the Misses Ann and Elizabeth Taubel, New London; Mrs. Alice Carpenter, Mr. and Mrs. Ervin Baugher and son Darryl, Leeman. A social afternoon was spent with cards as the chief diversion.

Mrs. Flora Leeman, who spent the last few weeks at the home of her daughter Mrs. Ray Cordy in Shiocott, returned to her home here Wednesday. Mr. and Mrs. Howard Palmer of Shiocott accompanied Mrs. Leeman home.

The Rev. and Mrs. P. W. Martell and sons Ronald and Junior of Green Bay were dinner guests Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Johnson.

Mr. and Mrs. Harland Greely are moving their household goods from Appleton to the home of the latter's parents Mr. and Mrs. Nels Nelson where they will reside.

The Literary society of Oakland school gave a short program on the life of George Washington, Tuesday afternoon. The following officers were elected at a previous meeting: Wayne Theed, president; Evelyn Kruse, vice president; George Gomm, secretary.

Lester Fields is suffering from infection in his arm, which he accidentally cut with an ax the early part of the winter.

A marriage license has been issued to Miss Rita Rurnoo daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Rurnoo of this place and Leo Kronschnabel of Appleton.

Girl Leaps to Death From Milwaukee Span

Milwaukee—(AP)—Doris Singles, 22, and pretty, leaped to her death today, the police said, from the Kilbourn street bridge over the Milwaukee river.

Bert S. Kerns, 23, with whom she had been riding in an automobile, jumped into the water in a rescue attempt but failed to find her. Miss Singles' body apparently slipped under the bridge.

Kerns dived under the ice several times but finally became exhausted and was hauled to safety on a rope manned by the bridge tender.

He was taken to the County Emergency hospital. His condition was reported "fair."

The police said the couple was driving home shortly before 6 o'clock a. m. when they came to the bridge. The girl asked Kerns to stop the machine. She descended, ran to the south railing and leaped, the police said.

Technocrats to Review Book Written by Wells

A review of H. G. Wells' book, "Things to Come," will be heard at a regular meeting of Technocracy, Inc., at 8 o'clock Monday evening at the Appleton Women's club. The discussion will be led by Joseph H. Doerfler, 1020 W. Eighth street.

Burglar Can't Resist Desire for Pop Drink

Tastes of the burglar who broke into the Henry Buss Grocery store, Belle avenue, town of Grand Chute, last night includes not only sweets but pop.

In addition to stealing a carton of cigarettes, a carton of gum, candy bars and 75 cents in change, the burglar also took a bottle of carbonated beverage at the neckup at the store this morning revealed, according to Sheriff John Lappen. The empty bottle of pop was found near the store.

Entrance to the store was gained by breaking a door window and then loosening the catch from the inside. Tracks in the snow indicated it was a 1-man or 1-boy job.

Mild Weather Is Weekend Forecast

Fair and Continued Warm Predicted for City And State

A weekend of mild, fair weather is forecast for Appleton and vicinity and the state in general by the Milwaukee weather bureau today.

As predicted, temperatures were higher in the city today, the thermometer atop the Post-Crescent registering 35 at noon. For the 24-hour period ending at 9 o'clock this morning the highest mark in the city was 32 and the lowest 22, according to charts at the Wisconsin Michigan Power company plant.

During the 24-hour period, precipitation was .05 of an inch. Tomorrow's fair weather will be preceded by cloudiness in this area tonight.

Los Angeles had 76 degrees yesterday, warmest in the nation. Yellowstone's 16 above was coldest.

Smallpox Shows Signs Of Spreading, Report

Lansing, Mich.—(AP)—Dr. Don W. Gudakunst, state health commissioner, warned today that smallpox outbreaks in border counties of the upper and lower peninsulas "are showing an alarming tendency to spread throughout the state."

Dr. Gudakunst said he found cause for worry in the fact that 63 cases of smallpox reported since Jan. 1 were in widely scattered localities. The fact, he said, "is most threatening of a possible epidemic."

He said three cases reported recently in Ogemaw county, in the lower peninsula, were "definitely related" to an outbreak in the upper peninsula.

He said he had received reports of smallpox in Berrien, Branch, Calhoun, Genesee, Oakland and Wayne counties, in the lower peninsula, and added that an original outbreak "is spreading from its source in Gogebic county until now six other upper peninsula counties are reporting cases." He listed them as Iron, Dickinson, Ontonagon, Menominee, Houghton and Marquette counties.

Births
A daughter was born yesterday to Mr. and Mrs. Harold B. Zuehlke, Milwaukee, at a Milwaukee hospital. Zuehlke is a former Appleton resident.

A daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Haase, Jr., 840 E. Hancock street, yesterday at St. Elizabeth hospital.

A daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. Leland Price, route 2, Appleton, Wednesday at St. Elizabeth hospital.

A daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. A. VanderWeilen, Kimberly, Friday at St. Elizabeth hospital. A son was born to Mr. and Mrs. Louis Derks, 524 S. Weimer street, Tuesday at St. Elizabeth hospital.

City Clerk Orders Ballots for Primary Election, March 15

Ballots for the primary election were ordered today, according to Carl J. Becher, city clerk. Nominations were closed Wednesday, the deadline for filing papers.

Only 24 of the 35 candidates seeking city offices will be included on the primary ballot. Others are automatically nominated because of a lack of competition and will be up for election April 5.

Offices which will be included on the primary ballot are city clerk, city engineer, city attorney, first ward alderman, second ward alderman, third ward alderman, fourth ward alderman and fifth ward alderman.

Election expense reports must be filed with the city clerk the Tuesday before and the Saturday after the primary, March 8 and March 19, Becher said.

American Cheese Production Dips In Month's Period

Creamery Butter Manufacture Is Higher in District

Chicago—(AP)—A nonseasonal recession of 4 per cent was shown in January from December in the manufacture of American cheese in Wisconsin, the research and statistical department of the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago reported today for the seventh district.

The volume of cheese produced was 2 per cent below the January, 1937 amount but totaled 3 per cent heavier than in the 1928-37 average for the month.

Distribution of the commodity from primary markets in the state gained 16 per cent over the month previous and rose to a level of 3 per cent above a year ago; it was, however, 8 per cent smaller than in the 1928-37 average.

Inventories of cheese in the United States diminished about seasonally, much of the decline taking place in Wisconsin, and the margin over the average for five years previous had widened slightly by Feb. 1. Cheese prices exhibited a continued (softening tendency throughout January and the first three weeks of February.

Creamery Butter Production
Creamery butter manufacture in the Seventh district totaled for January seasonally 1 per cent above the December amount and 8 per cent more than in January, 1937, but remained 12 per cent less than in the average for the period in the preceding 10 years.

Again seasonally heavier than current production, the tonnage sold aggregated 34 per cent more than in December, 184 per cent above the year-ago level, and 14 per cent greater than the 1928-37 average for January.

Production of butter in the United States in contrast to the seventh district trend was slightly below the volume of a month earlier and showed only a minor increase over a year ago. United States inventories of the commodity declined much less than is seasonally expected between Jan. 1 and Feb. 1, and on the latter date were within 44 million pounds of the 1933-37 average for Feb. 1.

Sizable imports of butter continued, as did a heavy production of competitive substitutes. After holding steady in the second half of January, butter prices declined about 3 cents in the first three weeks of February.

Youth Slightly Hurt In Traffic Accident

Leo Bourassa, 10-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Ignatius Bourassa, 1707 E. Newberry street, was cut about the forehead when involved in an accident with a car driven by Hugo Brueggemann, 33, 727 W. Spring street, about 4:30 Thursday afternoon. The youth was taken to his home after being treated by a physician. Brueggemann was going west on E. John street and the boy was crossing the street when the accident occurred, according to a report made to police yesterday.

Two cars were damaged in a minor accident about 9:15 last night on E. Wisconsin avenue. Miss Ruth Hanna, 20, 302 E. Lawrence street, was driving east on Wisconsin avenue when her machine was involved in a crash with a parked car owned by Lester Mitchell, 537 N. Bates street, according to a police report. The Mitchell machine was damaged about the rear end and the Hanna machine about the front end.

Begin WPA Storm Sewer Job on Franklin Street

A storm sewer project employing WPA labor was started on Franklin street from Locust street to Story street this morning. The men were transferred from the Eighth street project which is near completion.

Relief workers are installing a sewer on Carpenter street from South River street to Harrison street. Workmen today were tunneling under South River street.

Pershing Grows Weaker; End Is Believed Nearing

Davidson said. "He should be doing much better than he is."

The general's temperature was slightly above normal and his pulse somewhat irregular.

Although the second crisis was past, Dr. Davidson and Lieutenant Colonel S. U. Marietta held little hope for the recovery of their patient and made preparations for a possible blood transfusion.

Prepare for Transfer
At the same time the plant engineer of the desert sanatorium, where General Pershing occupies a lodge was checking equipment in a special oxygen room in the medical building, apparently with a view to moving the patient there. The transfer would mean a move of about three-quarters of a block.

Arrangements also had been made with the Southern Pacific railroad by Major General Herbert J. Brees, commander of the Eighth corps area, for a special train to Washington in event of death.

General Pershing's son, Warren, New York broker; an only sister, Miss May Pershing, of Lincoln, Neb., and Frank Pershing, a nephew, remained at the bedside or close at hand.

Ill since Feb. 5 the aged veteran has been confined to his bed since Feb. 15. Although his illness was first diagnosed as rheumatism, his physicians later announced he had suffered "acute damage" to heart muscles.

Suffered Relapse
Just when the rugged old soldier was planning to get out of bed, Feb. 21, he suffered a sudden relapse and was sent to the sanatorium and Mr. Davidson, his private physician, requested the war department to send a consultant.

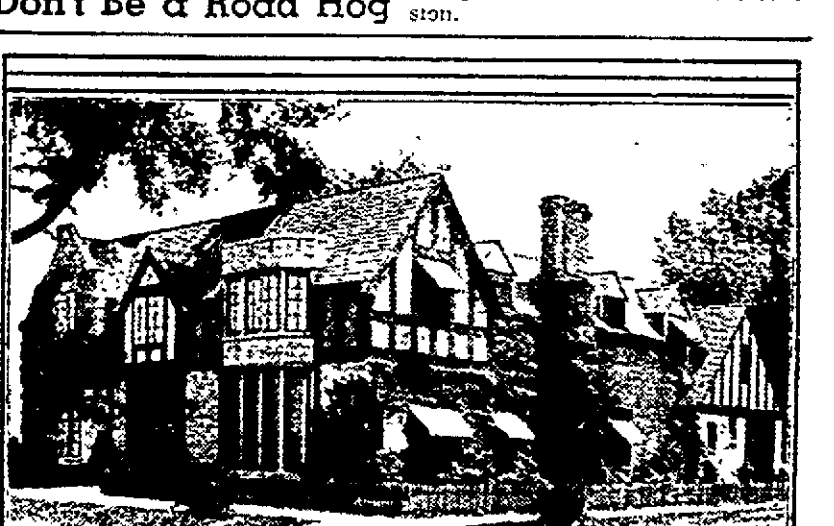

It was after Colonel Marietta had been assigned to the case from San Antonio, Texas, that the physicians admitted the aging general's condition was serious.

Thursday night the general lapsed into a coma that lasted several hours and the doctors despaired of his life. However, he rallied and at times recognized those at his bedside.

But the stout heart faltered again early last night and the fighting commander dropped into a second coma more pronounced than the first. Just as on the previous night he reached to heart stimulants but his strength was ebbing and he could not hold the gun he appeared to have made.

Squeeze Play Is Explained By Card Fan

BY ELY CULBERTSON

"Dear Mr. Culbertson: Until yesterday, my supreme bridge ambition was to be dealt thirteen spades. That, however, is now a thing of the past, because at long last I have known a thrill that I am sure is much more satisfying. I won't keep you in suspense. Last night I made my first squeeze! This was the hand which heaven sent me:

South, dealer.
Both sides vulnerable.

♥ K 8 4

WEST
♠ K 6 4
♦ 10 8 5 3
♣ K J 10

EAST
♠ 10
♥ 9 6 3 2
♦ K Q 7 2
♣ 6 5 4 3

SOUTH
♠ Q 2
♥ A Q J 10 5
♦ A J 9 4
♣ A 2

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 heart	Pass	1 spade	Pass
2 diamonds	Pass	4 hearts	Pass
4 no trump	Pass	5 spades	Pass
6 hearts	Pass	Pass	Pass

"I was, South. West led a low diamond. East played the queen and I won. I saw that I would have to take to the spade finesse sooner or later, so tried it at the second trick. West did not cover my queen and, when the ten dropped from East, it became apparent that West had started with four spades. Naturally, I could not lead another round without letting East ruff, so instead I ruffed a diamond in the dummy, led a heart to my own ten, and ruffed another diamond with the heart king. I then reentered my hand with the club ace and ran off the rest of my trumps, finally coming down to the spade deuce, the heart five, the diamond jack, and the club deuce. West, of course, hung on to his spades, therefore could have only one club which, from his jack and ten discarding, I hoped was the king. Dummy at this point had the A-J-9 of spades and the queen of clubs. I led my last trump and was delighted to see West squirming in his chair. I knew that my diagnosis had been correct and that he could not let go any card without giving me the rest of the tricks. As it happened, he held on to the club king and threw a spade. I let go dummy's club queen and took another spade finesse, then cashed the spade ace, dropping the king and establishing the nine spot.

"Of course, all this squeezing only resulted in an extra trick on my small slam contract, but that in no way affected the thrill that comes once in a lifetime.

"Enthusiastically yours,
E. M. S., St. Louis."

Comments hardly are necessary. I imagine that henceforth E. M. S. will rattle off squeeze plays with his eyes closed and one hand tied behind his back.

Today's Menu

ADDING PIQUANCY
(Roasts, chops and steaks often need a little "tartness." Supply it through the use of one of following relishes.)

- Cider Jelly
- |                  |                 |
|------------------|-----------------|
| 2 tablespoons    | 3 cups cider    |
| granulated       | 1 cup diced     |
| celery           |                 |
| 1 cup cold water | 1 cup diced     |
| 1 cup granu-     |                 |
| lated sugar      | apples          |
| 1 cup orange     | 1 teaspoon salt |
| juice            |                 |

Soak gelatin for five minutes in the cold water. Dissolve over boiling water. Add sugar, orange juice and cider. Stir thoroughly. Let thicken slightly and add the rest of the ingredients. Pour into a shallow mold. Chill until firm. Cut into squares and arrange on a shallow, chilled platter. Garnish with cream or shredded lettuce. Pass salad dressing in a small bowl.

- Spiced Beets
- |                   |                 |
|-------------------|-----------------|
| 5 cups diced      | 1 teaspoon      |
| cooked beets      | cinnamon        |
| 3 tablespoons     | 1 cup granu-    |
| flour             | lated sugar     |
| 1-3 teaspoon salt | 1-3 cup vinegar |
| 2 tablespoons     | 2 tablespoons   |
| parika            | butter          |

Mix flour, salt, parika, cinnamon and sugar with the beets. Add the rest of the ingredients and let them simmer together for five minutes. Stir frequently.

- Horseshoe Relish
- |                   |               |
|-------------------|---------------|
| 2-3 cup whipped   | 1 teaspoon    |
| cream             | celery salt   |
| 1 tablespoon      | 1 teaspoon    |
| granulated        | parika        |
| sugar             | 4 tablespoons |
| 2 tablespoons     | prepared      |
| vinegar           | horseradish   |
| 1/2 teaspoon salt |               |

Mix ingredients with a fork. Serve in small glass dish.

- Raisin Sauce
- |               |                 |
|---------------|-----------------|
| 2-3 cup dark  | 1 teaspoon      |
| brown sugar   | cloves          |
| 3 tablespoons | 1 teaspoon salt |
| flour         | 1 cup vinegar   |
| 1 teaspoon    | 1 cup raisins   |
| cinnamon      | 1 cup orange    |
|               | juice           |

Blend sugar with flour and spices. Add the rest of the ingredients. Cover and let simmer for ten minutes. Stir frequently to prevent scorching. Serve warm.

Teach Children to Use Radio, Phone Correctly

BY ANGELO PATRI

"I'll never take this child out again. Helen Marie, stop it! Don't be so stupid! Don't you know you can't take a reindeer home with you?"

"I want it! I want it! Get it for me, mother. Make the man give it to me. Make him, daddy."

"Listen, Helen Marie. I can't get the reindeer. The man can't give him to me. You couldn't take him home because you couldn't take care of him. There isn't room. I tell you you can't have him. Now stop it."

By the time father reached the last phase he was shouting so loud that people came from all parts of the Zoo to see what was happening. Helen Marie had good lungs and stout heart. And she wanted that reindeer on top of it so gracefully. She wanted it. That was all that counted. All that had ever counted up to now. Here were these two devoted people, who had always handed her whatever she demanded, refusing a little favor like a reindeer out of the Zoo. No wonder she yelled.

Father, red-faced and indignant, carried his shrieking daughter through a lane of grinning onlookers, deposited her, still yelling, "I want it," in the car, and drove home. "I'll never take that child anywhere again until you teach her some manners."

"Me teach her? As if it was I who had spoiled her by giving her everything she asked for. You never refuse her. If I say, 'No you surely say yes.'"

"No such thing. Whenever I make a movement to correct her you interfere. Only last night when I said she ought not to have the radio for amusement you said she wouldn't hurt it. Didn't you? And didn't she break two tubes?"

After father and mother had talked themselves out they came to an understanding. Helen Marie was to begin training in the morning, and mother was to be the teacher. Father was to be a supporter, without an audible voice in the matter. Daily happenings were to be talked over in private, and whatever decisions were reached were to be faithfully carried out for the sake of the child. Let's hope it worked.

"I want it," with an imperious stamp of the foot, is a danger signal. The child who has gained such a sturdy opinion of his own merits as to demand whatever comes within his range of vision is in danger. Children ought to be granted the simple pleasures their nature needs. One should say, Yes, to them as often as possible until they ask for something that they ought not to have, until they begin to ignore other folk's rights and feelings. The line that is drawn there must be firm and sure, and it should be drawn promptly, at the first sign of its need.

Children are not to toy with machines like the telephone and the radio. Teach them to use them intelligently, but never as a plaything. They are not to be given kittens and pups and chicks to squeeze to death, or neglect to extremity. They are not to have what belongs to other children. Nor are they to ask for things in shops and other folk's houses. Keep their wants in proportion to their needs, and in accordance with what is right for them and others, and save yourself and them a great deal of grief.

Suggests Exercises For Ankles

BY ELSIE PIERCE

Bright Eyes

Seventeen writes: "You often recommend the use of cotton soaked in witch hazel for compresses to brighten the eyes. Do you think I am too young to 'start monkeying' with my eyes, as Mother calls it? Also if I once started these treatments will it be necessary to continue them?"

There is nothing about this simple treatment that would make you an addict to it so that you would have to keep it up. I do think, however, that at seventeen your eyes should sparkle of their own accord from sheer health and well being. More sleep and rest, more hobbies and joy in living. Try the witch hazel compresses if you wish. They can't hurt you. Or try alternating cotton pads soaked in warm boric acid solution and then cotton pads wrung out of ice cold water. You'll find these very soothing and refreshing!

Weak Ankles

R. H. writes: "Would you be so kind as to print some exercises for strengthening the ankles. I am very fond of skating, but my ankles are very weak."

Do keep trying for skating is a pleasurable pastime and a splendid all-around exercise. At night, before retiring try walking in your bare feet. Walk first on your tip-toes around the room; then on your heels; then with the weight on the outside of each foot and toe straight ahead. Rise on toes and then squat by bending the knees. Try picking up marbles with your toes. And do see an orthopedic specialist to make sure you are wearing shoes that give arch and ankles the proper support. Success to you—skater!

"Back Talk"

A. C. R. writes: "Having read your column regularly, I wondered if you had taken up a point which troubles me and correction of which I may have missed in your articles. My diaphragm stays in nicely, but my back from waist to neck is excessively fat."

Mat exercises should help. Shoulder rolling exercises with hands at shoulder level and waist and hips rigid. Fifty times night and morning. Try it!

Uncle Ray's Corner

A Little Saturday Talk

At more than one port along my route, native divers have come alongside the steamer, hoping to earn a little money. Looking up toward the decks, they have waited for passengers to toss down coins. The idea was not to have the coins fall in their boats, and so far as I have seen, that has not happened even once. The coins were tossed into the water!

Copper pennies and small silver pieces went into the water, and in a split second the natives dived from their canoes and tried to capture the coins before they sank down too far. In almost all cases, they met success—after being under water from two seconds to half a minute. Sometimes two divers went after the same coin, but more often the one closest to where it dropped was allowed to try his fortune without a rival.

Reaching Singapore harbor, I noticed a small crowd of passengers looking down from the deck railing. Some were tossing coins to divers who had come near our ship in narrow canoes.

Of more interest were three men who seemed older than the others, and two boys. The boys were perhaps 12 or 13 years of age, when coins came near them they dived for them, though they were not so skillful as the men. It seemed they were learning the trade!

The three older men were smoking cigars. Just how old they were, I cannot say, but I should judge they were between 45 and 60. That seems old for divers, but they moved quickly and seemed more clever than any of the rest.

What happened to the cigar during each dive? By a quick motion, it was turned around so the lighted end was inside the mouth! Then the man plunged into the water, caught the falling coin, and returned to his boat.

Time and again I saw the "trick" performed. In each case, the diver went on smoking after turning the lighted end of his cigar forward.

SUITABLE CHINA

Dear Mrs. Post: My brother is soon to open his new office in a brand-new building which he is just completing. I think it would be nice if he sent out some sort of announcements, or still better, invitations to a formal opening. He, being ultra conservative and modest, feels that this may not seem dignified or ethical. But he has asked me to write you for advice and suggestions. Do you think his employees should be invited?

Answer: It is entirely conservative to give an afternoon tea. If you really mean formal opening, then cards of invitation should be especially printed. Otherwise, it would be permissible to write them on his business cards with his new address: "Tea at 4 o'clock." Then he can ask you or some one else to pour tea for him. On another table he might have a bowl of fruit punch of whatever variety he chooses. The tea table would be set exactly as though in a private house, with perhaps a greater variety of food than would be ordinarily customary. If the employees in his firm are also friends outside of hours, or if he and they have long been associated together, then they should of course be invited. New clerks or those who do not come into personal contact with him—in other words those in new or subordinate positions—need not be invited. The question of whom to invite is, however, a matter of his own impulse and liking.

Dear Mrs. Post: I am thinking of buying a set of dishes and just can't decide about it. Every one has a different opinion about what would be most suitable for ordinary family and informal dinners, which are the only kind we ever give in our simple house. I have myself thought a plain white china with a gold incrustated edge would be about the best, but so many of my friends and even the salespeople think this is very formal in type. They suggest flower patterns

HOLLYWOOD LIGHTS CAMERA ACTION HAPPENINGS

BY ROBBIN COONS

Hollywood—Have you been missing those "three little words" in movie dialogue lately?

You have, and there's a reason. Screen dialogue writers will go to desperate lengths to avoid having characters say "I love you" in so many words. Most of them agree that tender passion makes the toughest dialogue.

Sam Hellman eschews "I love you" because it's the hardest thing in the world to get an actress to say those three words convincingly. And if it isn't done convincingly you get a laugh.

Lamar Trotti concurs: Says he: "All scenes are hard to write and the love dialogue particularly so. Romantic scenes are difficult to keep within bounds. Unless you watch your step, they're apt to go sour, maudlin and overly sentimental. In 'Old Chicago' the love dialogue between Alice Faye and Tyrone Power was much easier because we had the elements of antagonism and humor to set off the love interest."

Takes Ingenuity

Sonya Levien, who co-authored the screen play of "In Old Chicago" with Trotti, is of the same mind: "Personally, I find that more ingenuity and effort is required in writing these (love) scenes than in all others. Nowadays, the action may say 'I love you' but not the words."

Working on "State Fair" Miss Levien took more time on one love scene than on any other sequence in the film.

Richard Sherman dissents but slightly: "Any scene dealing with deep and profound emotion is difficult, and love, I find, is a harder to treat intelligently in writing than death, sudden disaster and other occurrences in life that shock and move the heart. . . . They are all hard, in fact."

But Ernest Pascal insists the love stuff is easy if it is "honest and sincere." The love scene or any other situation is synthetic and contrived, it is the most difficult to get down."

All Scenes Tough

Morris Ryskind ("Stage Door," "There's Always a Woman," etc.) concurs in spirit but won't take sides: "All scenes are tough. The . . . scene in the picture is always the toughest."

Sidney Buchman ("Vacation Bound") finds one scene like another—equally difficult "if conscientiously approached." The writer who finds a particular scene apparently easy to handle should examine it suspiciously for cliches, he declares.

Glady's Lehman opines that the most difficult thing is to get "effective naturalness" with the economy of wordage imposed by film technique—in a love scene or any other.

Love Is Dangerous

And John Lee Mahin holds that the best love scene is the one with the least dialogue. "Dialogue," says Mahin, "is always dangerous in love scenes. The least lack of balance can betray a tender passage into raucous merriment."

The veteran H. J. Mankiewicz sums it up aptly:

"Love scenes are incredibly hard to dialogue—even when they're on the level—as when a boy is actual-

Make Husband Happy By Accepting Mother-In-Law

BY DOROTHY DIX

Dear Dorothy Dix—Please tell me the best way to get along with my mother-in-law. She has a fiery temperament, but she is a good mother and open-handed. She has two sons whom she still regards as little children and thinks they should let her dictate to them. She is very meddling. Has to know all our business, the price of everything we buy, even the clothing and groceries; then she broadcasts all our affairs to the balance of the family. She bosses me around and tells me how she does this and that, and how I should buy such and such a bargain, which intimates that I don't know anything. I feel like telling her to mind her own business and let mine alone, but my husband doesn't want to tell her for fear of hurting her feelings. He says she is old and doesn't mean anything by it. I try to take it, but it is very hard not to say a word back. Her other son's wife fought with her and she doesn't like her. Plans living with us when she is old. What shall I do? SALLY.

Answer:

Even Solomon himself couldn't tell you how to get along with a meddling mother-in-law. It is a problem that transcends all human wisdom to solve and yet it is what more young women desire to know than any other one thing on earth.

You can't use the direct method of dealing with her and come out flat-footed and tell her to keep her fingers out of your pie, because that would make her furious. She would go to your husband with it and start a quarrel between you. Besides you don't want to hurt an old woman's feelings. You can't diplomatically suggest to her that every woman feels that she has a right to run her own house in her own way, pick out her own furniture, put things where she likes them and bring up her children according to her own ideas, because she feels that her children's houses are her houses and that she has a right of boss them.

You can't even hope that she will ever change, because Gibraltar is no more immovable than an old woman. She is not only set in her ways, but also she is perfectly convinced that they are the only right ways and that her judgment is infallible.

So the only possible way to get along with a mother-in-law of the kind you have is just to accept her as she is and try to make the best of her. Try to see what is good in her and shut your eyes to the bad.

Try to get your mother-in-law's point of view that her married son is still a little boy to her. She doesn't realize that he doesn't still have to be told to wash behind his ears, not to get his feet wet and to watch for automobiles when he crosses the street. It is her love and solicitude that are back of the nagging that gets so upon your nerves. It is because she has so few interests in life that she piles into all of your affairs and has to know what everything costs, what you did yesterday and are going to do tomorrow. Aggravating as that is, it is pitiful, too, and you should deal with it mercifully, thinking how full your own life is of love and interests.

Most of all, you should make any sacrifice to get along with your mother-in-law because that is the strongest hold you can have upon your husband. There is no other thing for which a man is so grateful to his wife as for showing a little forbearance to his mother. There is no other one thing that a wife can do that will go so far toward making her husband happy as to be friends with his mother.

For, you see, your husband loves his mother. He doesn't see her faults as clearly as you do because he is accustomed to them and, anyway, he is bound to her by a thousand ties that a wife breaks at her peril. No man is ever put in a crueler position than the one who is called upon to take sides between his mother and his wife who are fighting over him like dogs over a bone and tearing him to pieces in their feud. You can't change your mother-in-law, but you can yourself. Suppose you try it.

Dear Miss Dix—I have been married to my man twenty years who has a past about which so-called friends told me the other day. He didn't deny it. Instead, he told me all about it and was very ashamed of his wrongdoing, so I have no fear of his ever going astray again. He is a good man and a perfect husband and we are very happy together. But in my life, also, there is a black page. In a moment of resentment at my parents' treatment of me I stepped aside a single time and have spent my life in regret. I did not tell my husband of this before I married him and he believes that I was as pure as snow, but now since he has confessed his past I feel that maybe I should tell him the whole truth. I want to get the burden off my chest. I feel that I am a cheat and am not playing fair with him, but he is very jealous and I fear the results. There is no possible chance of his ever finding out about it. Do you think he would be glad if I told him, or would it only make him miserable as knowing of his past does me? A WIFE

Confession is weakness. It is trying to lay your load on somebody else's shoulders and make him or her help you carry it. That is a cowardly thing to do. Don't be tempted into doing it. Shut your teeth on your secret and keep your remorse to yourself. It is part of the punishment for your sin.

I think husbands and wives make a terrible mistake when they "tell each other everything" about the follies they have committed unless there is something that could reach out into the new life and spoil it. If they had served a jail sentence or had some contagious disease or there was some inheritable malady in their families, they should reveal that and not the story of some youthful escapade or some boy or girl who was a first sweetheart.

That only gives cause for needless jealousy, and in marriage it is only too true that what we don't know doesn't trouble us.

EASY TO DON

YOU can bustle all day in this comfortable frock with complete assurance that you are looking neat, tidy, and slim. Pattern 4681 is one of Anne Adams' favorite designs, because its cleverly shaped princess lines are flattering to every type of figure and because the dress fits so well it is exceptionally comfortable to work in. The button-front feature makes it easy to put on and easy to iron, because it opens out flat. In white, this frock makes a splendid uniform for nurses or dietitians. Make it up in gay prints for at-home wear, and take your choice between button open and the tab-finish-of sleeves.

Pattern 4681 is available in women's sizes 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46 and 48. Size 36 takes 4 1/2 yards 36 inch fabric and 1 1/2 yards rickrack. Illustrated step-by-step sewing instructions included.

Send fifteen cents (15c) in coins or stamps (coins preferred) for this Anne Adams pattern. Write plainly: size, name, address and style number.

Rocket Reserves Best Jay Seconds Play Preliminary Contest In New Menasha High School Gym

Menasha—Red Rocket reserves scored the first victory in the new Menasha high school gymnasium Friday night when they defeated the Bluejay reserves, 19 to 14, in a preliminary tilt. The Bluejay reserves rallied to make a game of it after trailing during the first half.

Buksy led the Menasha cagers with three field goals while Krueger contributed four for Neenah. Neenah took a 5 to 3 lead in the first half and increased it to 11 to 4 at the half. The Menasha cagers were still trailing 14 to 8 at the end of the third quarter.

Buksy connected in the final quarter while Anderson scored twice. Bunker scored for Neenah as did Erdman from the free throw line to guarantee the victory.

North Water street when the accident occurred. The front bumper and frame of the doctor's car were damaged.

Armstrong, Christoph Assigned Cage Tournaments

Menasha—Two Twin City basketball officials have been assigned to class C district basketball tournaments by the Wisconsin Interscholastic Athletic association. They are A. J. Armstrong, principal at Menasha High school, and George Christoph, football coach at Neenah High school.

Armstrong will work the Niagara district tournament where Argonne, Florence, Hies, Laona, Niagara, Phelps, Thetford, Lakes and Wabeno compete. At Kiel Christoph will handle the tournament in which Cedar Grove, Kohler, North Fond du Lac, Random Lake and Waldo participate.

Neenah Students Stage
Pep Session for Game
Neenah—"The Man on the Street" was the featured number at the pep meeting held at the Neenah High school auditorium Friday afternoon. Jack Meyer, senior, was the interlocutor, and he questioned students and teachers, most of the questions dealing with the then approaching Neenah-Menasha game held last night in the new Menasha High school gymnasium.

FRACTURES RIGHT ARM
Neenah—Frank Swatschko, 33, route 2, Neenah, operator of a digging machine, was injured when he slipped and fell while adjusting the belt on the machine at Oshkosh Friday afternoon. His right arm was fractured when it caught in the belt conveyor.

EASTERN STAR CHAPTER OBSERVES ANNIVERSARY

Winning Team at DePere
Will Receive Bishop
Rhode Trophy

Menasha—St. Mary High school cagers will open their quest for the St. Norbert tournament championship at 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon at DePere when they oppose the St. Patrick quintet of Eau Claire.

The St. Mary tournament squad of eight men will consist of Bill Resch, Romack, Griesbach, Laux, Prunuske, Hoks Picard and Hopfensperger. The ability of the St. Patrick team is unknown, although it is supposed to have won nine games, according to Marvin Miller, St. Mary coach.

The tournament is the eighth annual St. Norbert college invitation event. The winning team will receive the Bishop Rhode trophy. The Zephyrs last won the tournament in 1934.

Teams in the tournament include the five teams of the Fox Valley Catholic conference as well as St. Stanislaus of Milwaukee, Edgewood of Madison, and the newcomers, St. Patrick team of Eau Claire.

The tournament is scheduled to run Sunday, Monday and Tuesday. The Zephyrs probably will travel to DePere each day except if they enter the championship finals. In that case arrangements probably will be made for the Zephyrs to stay at DePere so they will be better rested for the championship battle.

Even if the Zephyrs do not win the St. Norbert tournament, they will make an effort to secure a bid to the national Catholic tournament at Chicago, according to the Rev. Joseph Becker, principal of St. Mary High school. As some of the various tournament winners do not accept invitations to the national tournament, the St. Mary record of an undefeated conference championship should merit them consideration for a place whether or not they win the St. Norbert tournament.

Students Take Part In Washington Day Program at Armory

Menasha—Twenty-two students from Butte des Morts school participated in the Washington Day program which was held at the Menasha Women's Relief corps meeting Thursday afternoon in S. A. Cook armory. At the 2:30 Sunday afternoon Sunday school session, "The Value God Places on Mankind" will be the discussion topic. A communion service will be held in conjunction with Bible study at 7:30 Wednesday evening.

Many Neenah Families Own Valuable Antiques

Neenah—The collecting mania, under the guise of spring fever, will be augmented by the traditional housecleaning season next month, and will send residents in the Twin Cities searching for antique furniture, China and glassware. However, there are many Neenah residents who need not search for within their own homes.

Inherited from their parents and grandparents, there are already many old and valuable pieces of furniture and glassware. The Neenah library's museum has been the recipient of some of these valuable articles with their equally interesting history, and others were loaned for an exhibit held several years ago.

Mrs. Ida Hanson, Park avenue, has a pieced quilt made by Mary Jane Rogers in 1860, brown silk Mansur, 1862, a wooden rocker which belonged to the Mansur family who brought it from Vermont in 1843, and other quilts and coverlets.

Among the collection of the Albee family is a bed warmer which is 100 years old, a foot warmer with its old fashioned charcoal pan that is 150 years old and an Empire styled gown reputed to be 207 years old.

Jessie and Darnie Wheeler have a clock and an old peacock candlestick, both over 100 years old and a lovely black silk and lace shawl that, too, is over a century old. Also among their valuable antiques

Sentence Man for Drunken Driving

Gerald Keller, Route 2,
Kaukauna, Pleads
Guilty to Charge

Neenah—Gerald Keller, route 2, Kaukauna, was sentenced to 90 days in county jail when he pleaded guilty of drunken driving when arraigned this morning before Justice of the Peace Gaylord Leehning. He was given an alternative of paying a fine of $100 and costs. Keller is the sixth drunken driver in the Twin Cities since Jan. 1.

Elder Coon, 502 Tobacoin street, Kaukauna, a passenger in the Keller car, was fined $15 and costs when he pleaded guilty of drunkenness when arraigned this morning before Justice Leehning.

Keller was arrested by Neenah police following an accident with a car driven by John Evans, 719 Main street, at 10:15 Friday night on N. Commercial street at Clybourn street. Keller was arrested 15 minutes after the accident in front of the Strange Paper company, Menasha, police said.

Police testified that the Keller car had been parked in front of a tavern on N. Commercial street and was making a U-turn while the Evans car was traveling south on S. Commercial street. The right front fender and running board of the Evans car and the front bumper of the Keller car were damaged.

DIRECTORS MEET

The board of directors of River-view Country club met for lunch Thursday noon at the Hotel Northern.

If George Washington could have returned to earth and visited Appleton this week, he undoubtedly would have been impressed favorably with the manner in which his birthday anniversary was being observed throughout the city. At various parties and patriotic gatherings in honor of the occasion some groups listened to patriotic addresses and patriotic music while others, dressed in costume, of the time of Washington, danced the minuet. At the upper left several members of Appleton chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, are shown grouped around Colonel Marshall C. Graff, speaker of the day, at their annual George Washington luncheon held Tuesday at the home of Mrs. Joseph V. Wedgwood, N. Green Bay street. The women are, left to right, Mrs. L. M. Hoover, 1833 W. Spencer street, regent; Mrs. F. V. Heinemann, 217 N. Green Bay street, registrar; Mrs. F. G. Wheeler, 810 E. College avenue; and Miss Carrie Morgan, 100 N. Green Bay street.

An annual event at Lawrence college is the colonial banquet at which the four best loved girls on the campus are honored. This year's banquet was held Monday night at Brokaw hall, and in the picture at the lower left is seen a section of the speaker's table showing Miss Dorothy Waples, left, associate professor of English, who gave the principal address; Miss Betty Morrison, Elmwood Park, Ill., toastmistress who recently was elected president of Lawrence Women's association; and Miss Margaret Badger, Gennebago street, a 1936 graduate and May queen that year, who gave the toast to the best loved. ## Mardi Gras Party to be Held Monday

MARDI GRAS, the last opportunity for celebration before the lenten season begins, is traditionally a time of merry-making, elaborate street parades and costume balls being the usual form of entertainment in many of the larger cities, notably New Orleans, on the eve of Ash Wednesday. St. Martha Guild of All Saints Episcopal church is advancing its celebration a day and holding a Mardi Gras party Monday night at the parish hall in the form of a supper-dance.

Charles C. Baker will act as master of ceremonies for the event and will call off for square dances and other old-fashioned entertainment. Supper will be served at 7 o'clock after which dancing will take place. Card tables will be set up for those who do not wish to dance.

The affair has been announced as a costume dance, but anyone wishing to attend may come masked or not, just as he chooses. Confetti and serpentines will lend a carnival atmosphere to the party.

The party will begin with supper at 7 o'clock after which dancing will provide entertainment. Card tables will be available for those who do not wish to dance. (Post-Crescent Photo.)

World Offers Challenge, Churchmen Told at Rally

CHURCHING the liquor traffic and war promoters as forces which are actively at work today against the "kingdom ideal," Dr. J. Russell Throckmorton, Chicago, head of adult work of the Methodist Episcopal church in the United States, said, "I know of no day, certainly in my own life and I question if there has been a day in history, that offered as great a challenge to men of Christian belief and faith as today offers" in a talk before over 100 men at an interdenominational men's Bible class rally last night at Emmanuel Evangelical church.

"We are gathered here tonight that we might face together the challenges and obligations that are ours as Christians in a very strange time," the speaker said, "I want us to think in terms of our relationship with that kingdom ideal which Christ launched; to think of our fellowship with that band of Christian disciples and those succeeding generations each of which has done its bit in furthering the ideals of that kingdom."

Pointing to such statements as "Blessed are the meek," "Blessed are the peace makers," and "Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself," Dr. Throckmorton said that Jesus talked about practical things in discussing the kingdom of God. He said that the whole platform of this kingdom is contained in the New Testament and that Jesus expected that a regime could be set up among men in which men should live as brothers in the precepts of love, forgiveness and unselfishness.

Dr. Throckmorton said that with the few months of teaching that Jesus could give his disciples, they became so imbued with these teachings and that ideal that they were willing to suffer martyrdom rather than to recant or turn against that great ideal that Jesus fastened in their hearts.

In closing he urged his listeners to keep alive this dream of the kingdom of God for fear it be lost because of indifference.

"What an opportunity for us to put into effect and practice the principles of Christ," he said, "We stand to lose if we do not, so even if we are not quite sure of Christian truth we might at least take a chance with it."

George F. Werner acted as toastmaster at the supper which was served by women of Emmanuel Evangelical church. C. C. Nelson was song leader and J. E. Goodrich played the accompaniment.

The Rev. R. H. Spangler, president of Fox River Valley Ministerial association, gave grace and music was provided by the Roosevelt Junior High school string ensemble of 10 pieces. Dr. Harry C. Culver, pastor of First Methodist Episcopal church, introduced the speaker, and the Rev. C. H. Blum, pastor of the host church and chairman of religious work committee of the Y.M.C.A., spoke of the value of Bible study by men and of getting together of men of the various churches.

The rally was sponsored by the religious work committee of the Y.M.C.A. and representatives of men's Bible classes of cooperating churches.

Mrs. Fred Gerrits of this village and Mrs. George Gerrits of Appleton spent Thursday in Milwaukee where they visited Mrs. Frank Dittmer who is confined to St. Mary hospital in that city. She submitted to a major operation.

Mrs. J. H. Doyle has returned from Milwaukee where she attended the funeral of a relative.

Miss Lawrence Norval of Escanaba, Mich., spent several days this week here with friends.

800 Children at Safety Program

Little Chute—Approximately 800 children attended the safety program sponsored by the Kaukauna local of Policemen's Protective association at the St. John school auditorium Thursday afternoon. Little Chute is a member of the association. Harold Engerson of Kaukauna was in charge of the meeting. A talk was given by Village President John Vande Yacht, who explained the 15 rules of the bicycle ordinance to the children and also pointed out the dangers of shooting rifles in the village and also asked the children to cooperate with the village in protecting the plants and shrubs in the village park.

The Rev. Father Klein, assistant pastor of St. John church in this village also gave a short talk. The main address of the afternoon was given by Thomas Allen of Stevens Point, safety director of an insurance company. An especially humorous and also educational talk was given by William F. Steuber, assistant director of the state highway safety department. These talks were followed by two motion pictures "We Who Walk" which showed the dangers in crossing streets improperly and also showed the proper way to cross a street and "The Hit and Run Driver."

Lawrence Says Electric Power Shortage Looms

Utilities Have Smaller Budgets for Expansion in 1938

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
Washington—Preliminary figures show that the budgets of electric power companies for the year 1938 contain only $350,000,000 for contemplated expenditures on new construction, which is even less than 1937.

Whereas official information as assembled by government agencies themselves indicates that the private utilities ought to be spending around $1,000,000,000 a year for additional plant and equipment.

The explanation, of course, is that nobody wants to lend money to utility companies as long as the TVA sword of Damocles is hanging over the private power companies. President Roosevelt talks about settling the problem, but actually does nothing about it. Either he is afraid of the people ownership crowd in congress, or he is too busy on other things to get at this, his most effective way to "prime the pump."

Meanwhile, strange as it may seem, there is looming up a power shortage in America of serious proportions. This information is derived from some of the government's economic studies, so it can hardly be attributed to any source involved in the present controversy.

Average Output
Thus, it is set forth that, for the year 1936 as a whole, the average output per unit of installed generating capacity was only about 4 per cent short of 1929. During a large part of 1937, the power production ran as much as 10 per cent above 1936, and there were some times above the capacity-use factor, estimated at 12 per cent above the 1929 high.

There are, of course, power reserves and wide differences among individual systems, so that actual power shortages can for a while be averted by some inter-connection.

This method, however, is useless when power shortage becomes general. If business should pick up again to 1936 levels during 1938 or 1939, the danger of a power shortage will be very great, indeed, for power plants cannot be built overnight. It takes about two years to plan, build and equip a present-day generating plant of the steam type, and about three years to construct new stations of the water power type. Some additional generating units can be attached to existing equipment, but unless there is a resumption of capital spending for more plant capacity, American industry will face a shortage of power at a time when it will most need electrical energy in order to expand factory employment.

Prior to the depression, the utility industry averaged about $800,000,000 a year in spending for new plants and equipment, and, due to the stagnation of the capital markets and the lack of construction during depression years, the electric power industry is so far behind that even an expenditure of $1,000,000,000 is by no means high and what ought to be carefully applied to avert a power shortage and to assure the continuance of low rates to consumers.

Face Rising Costs
Electric power companies are faced—apart from government competition—with rising costs of coal and labor and other maintenance items, so that anybody who is getting ready to lend any of his precious savings to a utility company is naturally wary to have some clearing of the air on a lot of things before the utilities can hope to borrow $1,000,000,000 a year from the American people.

These sums cannot be raised entirely through bonds or what is known as first mortgage or senior securities. What has to happen is that the public must feel the urge to supply money for what are known as junior securities; that is, preferred stocks or common stocks. During the last five years that the utilities have been under attack, hardly a dollar of common stock money has been raised for utilities.

Mr. Roosevelt has been insisting that this is all imaginary and that the utilities have nothing to fear because the area of government competition is restricted to about 15 per cent of the country. But this 15 per cent is being carefully watched by the investor to determine when and how it will spread and what kind of an appraiser of property values Uncle Sam is going to be when he buys out existing utility systems in that self-same 15 per cent area.

Simple Solution
The simple solution proposed some time ago by Wendell Willkie, president of the Commonwealth and Southern system, and perhaps the most realistic of all utility men, is that the federal government either buy outright the utility systems in the TVA area or that it begin at once the negotiations of an agreement to pool government power and private power systems for common use at a fair rental. It isn't generally known, but engineering experts estimate that about $2,000,000 to $3,000,000 of electric power from the TVA is going to waste annually in the southern area because the government and the private power companies do not get together on contracts for use of the power.

Every day that Mr. Roosevelt delays an adjustment of the whole problem, the taxpayers lose money, American industry loses an opportunity for a private "pump priming" of colossal proportions—$1,000,000,000 a year may be enough to get the whole country started out of the "recession"—and, besides, there is actual danger of a power shortage from a long range point of view.

Surely the price of politics and the price of pride is high. The vic-

'The Loving Heart' Deals With Years Before, During Civil War

By Jean Wiley Thickens

"The Loving Heart" by Elsie Singmaster has been a favorite with millions of readers ever since her first short story appeared in the old Outlook Magazine 25 years ago. She is especially well known for her stories of the Pennsylvania Dutch Mennonites whose unique and often amusing religious customs and practices have defeated designing politicians for generations. Miss Singmaster has lived among these sturdy, pig-headed people and is familiar with their foibles and short comings. She treats them in a tolerant and humorous manner which make delightful reading.

Her latest book, "The Loving Heart," is a story of the years preceding a during the Civil War, quite a departure from anything she has done before. While it is no "Gone With the Wind" it is a splendid and convincing tale of life in the little village of Gettysburg, Penn. during those tragic war years. Her delineation of character is excellent and her plot is well sustained and

BY RANDY HAASE
MENASHA — Menasha High school cagers staved off a fourth quarter rally and defeated Neenah, 17 to 16, to dedicate successfully the new Menasha High school gymnasium last night. The victory gave the Jays undisputed possession of second place in the N.E.W. conference standings and assured them of at least a second place when the season closes next week. A crowd of over 2,000 filled the new gymnasium so that even standing room was at a premium.

The Bluejays went into the lead when DuCharme sank a push shot after five minutes of scoreless ball. Tight defensive play marked the first three quarters of the game. Play loosened up in the final period with both teams missing on several set-up shots.

Menasha scoring was well divided with Schneider, Zelinski and DuCharme each collecting five points. Schmidt scored seven to top the Red Rockets. The Bluejay defense limited the Neenah quintet to three field goals in the first three quarters, the first field goal coming after six minutes of the second quarter were gone.

Jays Lead, 3-0

Resch missed a free throw on a foul by H. Hesselman near the start of the game and after five minutes of cautious basketball DuCharme pushed in a goal. He converted on the second foul by H. Hesselman to put the Bluejays ahead, 3 to 0. Schmidt missed twice on a foul by Osiewalski and then converted twice on a foul by DuCharme for Neenah's first points. The quarter ended 3 to 2 when Haerli missed the second foul by DuCharme.

The Bluejays increased their lead rapidly in the second quarter. Zelinski scored a goal when DuCharme faked J. Hesselman out of position and shoved a pass to the unguarded Menasha center, Zelinski followed a few plays later by hooking in another shot over his guard's head.

Schmidt missed a free throw on Schneider's foul before Kettering slapped in a rebound for Neenah's first field goal. Jackson converted successfully on a foul by Schneider to make the score 7 to 5. DuCharme missed on Kettering's foul. Zelinski missed on Schmidt's foul but was successful on the second attempt given him when a Neenah player moved over the line. The half ended with Menasha ahead 5 to 5.

Neenah Ties Score

With the opening of the second half, Jack Hesselman tied the score at 8-all. He sank a field goal and converted when fouled by Osiewalski as he made the goal. The Bluejays started scoring then and built up their lead to 14 to 8 at the end of the third quarter. Schneider scored on a rebound but missed the free throw that followed when Jackson fouled him. Osiewalski scored a field goal and DuCharme sank two gift shots on a foul by Kettering.

J. Hesselman missed from the free throw line on Osiewalski's third foul at the opening of the final quarter. Schneider converted on a miscue by J. Hesselman but Schmidt hooked a long shot to make the count 15 to 10. Schneider followed with a rebound shot to put the Bluejays ahead 17 to 10. With four and a half minutes remaining they attempted to stall. Schneider fouled in a melee under the Neenah basket and Schmidt converted to make the score 17 to 11. The Neenah forward made it 17 to 13 when he took a pass from Haerli under the basket.

Haerli cut the Bluejay lead to two points when he batted in a rebound. Schmidt missed on the third foul by Schneider but with 45 seconds remaining Krueger converted on a foul by Heiss to make the score 17 to 16. The Bluejays got possession of the ball but were rushed by the Red Rockets. Krueger fouling Zelinski in a scramble for the ball. Although the latter missed the shot, he took enough time to clinch the victory.

Racine Brothers To Show at Armory

Kratochvil Lads Popular in West Allis, Milwaukee Boxing Circles

THE CARD
Merrill Boehm, Green Bay, five rounds at 135 pounds.
Gordon Jungwirth, Oshkosh, versus Francis Piskowski, Green Bay, five rounds at 155 pounds.
Wilbur "Butch" Ketzman, Big Falls, versus Clarence Grafenstein, Sheboygan, at 158 pounds.
Al Robbins, Oshkosh, versus Billy Kratochvil, Racine, at 140 pounds.

Clifford "Chippy" Lutz, Appleton, versus Russell McGrey, Sheboygan, at 138 pounds.
Leon "Tuffy" Toonen, Appleton, versus Ned Parpilio, Chicago, at 115 pounds.
Hovey Lamers, Little Chute, versus Curley Millipen, Menasha, at 138 pounds.

Two Racine brothers, Joey and Billie Kratochvil, will sling the kind of leather that fans like to see in the amateur boxing show sponsored by Oney Johnson post of the American Legion at Armory G Thursday evening. Joey is paired with Merrill Boehm, Green Bay, at 135 pounds in a 5-round window bout. He has had more than his share of success in Detroit rings and has had many bouts at Kenosha, Racine, Milwaukee, West Allis and Chicago. Joey is one of the busiest amateurs in the state and is trying to equal a record of 347 amateur bouts hung up by another brother, Ernie who manages and seconds the lads. Billy will tangle with Al Robbins of Oshkosh in a 3-round affair. They will fight at 140 pounds. Billy has been in demand for main preliminaries at West Allis and Milwaukee and has plenty of what it takes. He is described as a rough, tough, crowd pleaser.

Blackburn's Statement About Joe Coming True

BY EDDIE BRIETZ
NEW YORK — "Some fight managers we know could tell interesting if not amazing stories of how a certain young heavyweight is being built up. . . . Every ball and strike thrown by pitchers trying out for the Michigan State college baseball team is tabulated by Coach John Kobs. . . . Joe Medwick will be back in the Cardinal fold within two weeks. . . . Alabama is said to have 'out-talked' Georgia in recent 'conferences' with an end named Burt from Macon, Ga. who already has moved to Tuscaloosa.

Don't forget that back in the summer of 1936, wise old Jack Blackburn said Joe Louis would not reach his peak for two years. . . . So watch out, Mr. "Smellin'" (as Joe would say).

SYNOPSIS: Chance and a young English girl have contrived to make the trader and gun-runner, James Clyde, rajah of Balingong. Christine Forrester, completing a plan of her dead father, was behind the Dyak revolt which caused Malay surrender. This desperate enterprise may bring power and wealth, or defeat and death. It means lifelong jungle exile for Clyde and myself (Paul Thorpe his nephew). But Christine needs our help, and we are both in love with her.

Chapter 30
The New Government
T HAT audience with the Tenzalung rifleman and the Dyak chiefs was the beginning of a series lasting many days. Upon that first night Clyde returned to his ship, leaving me in charge; but in a day or two he moved his personal things to the Balingong compound, and set about his job with all the energy he possessed. Though Robert Forrester was often too ill to leave the Avon, Christine, in spite of Clyde's violent objection, came to Balingong every day. But I saw her only in a series of glimpses. Once, I remember, she received a delegation of wives of the native chiefs and there was a tea ceremonial with a great deal of excited arm-waving by strange little women dressed in Chinese silks of every conceivable color. Queer creatures, half-crazy with God-knows-what tribal lore arrived from back-country villages. These were Manangs, half witch-doctor and half priestess, come to size up the white dyak. And yet in those same days she found time to get some new shirts made for Clyde—and showed our Chinese cook how to make a sort of bitter-sweet relish that was a God-send after the monotonous pickle-and-soy flavoring that seasoned most of our dishes. Together with Christine, Clyde now thrashed out plans for the first things that he must do, and the first policies that he must attempt. Anthony Forrester would have been proud of his daughter then. I wondered if he ever knew how much Christine had benefited by the knowledge which had cost Forrester himself so many drudging years. Out of their long arguments, presently began to appear definite plans. The all-day audiences with the several hundred tribal pangars began to take shape and force. Clyde had a notion that the limits of Balingong raj, very vague to Mantusc, could be claimed to in-

Bette Davis Star Of New Photoplay

'That Certain Woman' Will
Monday, Tuesday

Described as more thrilling than her recent "Marked Woman," or than "Dangerous," which won her the Academy Award as the best actress of 1935, is the Warner Bros. melodrama which brings Bette Davis to the Elite Theatre on Monday and Tuesday Bargain Days.

It is called "That Certain Woman," and depicts the blonde star as the widow of a gangster killed in the notorious Valentine's Day massacre in Chicago. It takes Bette through many tribulations and persecutions, and shows her battling her way bravely toward peace and happiness.

It is said to be a most unusual sort of photoplay. It was both written and directed by the celebrated Edmund Goulding, who not only did both of those jobs but also composed a theme song which Miss Davis sings.

"That Certain Woman" has as its romantic hero Henry Fonda. In it also are such distinguished players as Ian Hunter, Anita Louise, Mary Phillips, Hugh O'Connell and Donald Crisp, so it might be called an all-star production.

Outstanding Western
Is Booked at Appleton

Once in years does M.G.M. produce a western: once in a life-time does such a drama as this reach the screen. "The Bad Man of Brimstone," starring the virile Wallace Beery is coming to the Appleton Theatre for a four days engagement starting Saturday March 5.

The powerful "bad man" portrayal of Wallace Beery, the uniformly fine work of such stellar supporting players as Virginia Bruce, Dennis O'Keefe, Joseph Calleia, Lewis Stone, Guy Kibbee and Bruce Cabot have combined to bring to the screen this absorbing drama.

Dealing with the wild and woolly 80's of the old West, the new picture offers a thrilling panorama of stagecoach, travel, gold rush, hysteria, crooked politics and the rule of the trigger.

In the role of "Trigger" Bill, head outlaw of the town of Brimstone, Wallace Beery is offered the finest opportunity of his long and brilliant career. The screen's most lovable villain, Beery enacts a gruff, tough, hard-shooting bandit. He holds up a stagecoach containing left Burton, played by Dennis O'Keefe, the remarkable new discovery, who gives every indication of being another Robert Taylor.

Virginia Bruce, deserting drawing room roles in the new picture, offers a splendid portrait of a pioneer schoolmarm. Joseph Calleia pecks his usual striking villainy in his role as Stone, Kibbee, and Calleia fill their roles to perfection.

Filmed for the greater part in Zion National Forest in Utah, the film's action is blended against a background of wild scenic beauty. However, it is the vivid characterizations of these forerunners of America's civilization that make "The Bad Man of Brimstone" stand out as a motion picture of exceptional merit.

Powell, Fred Waring
In 'Varsity Show' Cast

"Varsity Show," Warner Bros. musical extravaganza, comes to the Elite theatre for three days starting next Wednesday. Starring the ever-popular Dick Powell and introducing in grand manner to motion picture audiences, Fred Waring and his nationally famous orchestra, the Pennsylvanians, "Varsity Show" marks a new high in musical and comedy entertainment.

Included in the stellar cast besides Dick Powell and Fred Waring are such leading figures as Ted Healy, Lee Dixon, Priscilla Lane, Rosemary Lane, Buck and Bubbles, Walter Catlett, Johnny Davis and Roy Atwell. Busby Berkeley, known for his imaginative and lavish production numbers in past Warner Bros. musicals, outdoes himself in "Varsity Show" with a smashing finale that climaxes more than an hour of supreme fun and amusement.

Since 1634 only the pope has had authority to canonize persons as saints of the Roman Catholic church.

'GOLDWYN FOLLIES' COMING TO RIO

Radio's favorite, Charlie McCarthy, keeps his eye on Edgar Bergen and Andrea Leeds in the above scene from "Goldwyn Follies," booked to play at the Rio theatre starting next Friday. Filmed in technicolor, the huge cast of this big musical hit includes Adolphe Menjou, The Ritz Brothers, Zorina, Kenny Baker, Helen Jepson, Phil Baker, Bobby Clark, and a host of other stars.

Added featurettes on the same program include the Dionne Quintuplets in "Quintupland," and the latest release of "The March of Time." The latter is of particular interest to Appleton because it depicts the rapid rise of the paper industry in the South and its possible injurious effect on our own community.

Few Dangerous Snakes Are Found in Wisconsin

BY CLARA HUSSONG

When I was a child I was taught to fear all snakes, to kill all the smaller varieties and run from the larger ones. No one ever told me that practically all the snakes I would run across would be harmless and that most of them are beneficial because they feed on insects and small rodents.

Today children are taught that most of our snakes are no more dangerous than squirrels, chipmunks or rats. It is true that snakes possess teeth to capture their prey and they will fight and even bite when cornered but so will all of our small animals. A squirrel's sharp teeth would probably make a deeper wound than that made by a snake.

The only snakes to fear in this state are two members of the rattlesnake family, the massasauga and the timber rattlesnake. Neither is said to inhabit this part of the state. The massasauga is very rarely found in marshes and swamps in the southern part of the state. The timber rattlesnake is found in rocky country, being more common in the western part of the state than elsewhere.

Both varieties have rattles but these cannot be used to estimate their age except approximately. Each time the snake sheds its skin it adds a new rattle. The first year of its life the snake sheds its skin every few months, later, less often. Our harmless snakes imitate the rattle by vibrating the tips of their tails or by tapping them against a dry leaf or twig.

The reason our rattlesnakes are to be feared is because they possess, besides teeth, a pair of fangs in the upper part of their mouths. The fangs are grooved or perforated to allow the venom to pass from the poison gland at their base to the tip of the fang. The fangs are shed at intervals but new ones take their place almost immediately.

Most of us have seen the flicking tongue of a cornered snake and may have thought this tongue to be a deadly instrument. It is perfectly harmless and of no use even in feeding. It serves a purpose for the snake, however, that of hearing. Snakes have no external ears. Their ears are inside the head and consist of a membrane like a membrane and the forked tongue. When a snake sticks out this slender tongue it is listening for threatening sounds and when it hisses it is merely trying to scare off its enemies.

Has No Eye Lids
Many of us have heard stories of snakes hypnotizing birds in order to capture their eggs or young. The parent bird, no doubt was paralyzed by fright but not by any hypnotic stare. The unblinking gaze of a snake is due to the absence of eyelids, so that a snake really sleeps with its eyes open. The eyes are covered with a transparent cap which is shed each time the snake sheds its skin.

Some time ago a group of us were talking of snakes and their habits. Only a few in the group had an actual liking for snakes, the rest were indifferent or had a genuine fear of them. During the discussion one of the women let out a scream and then shame-facedly admitted that she felt a "crawly" feeling around her ankles.

Later, during a field trip of our local Bird Club, I saw this same woman look on calmly while her seven-year-old son walked about with a red-bellied snake coiled around his fingers. She told me later that although inwardly she was absolutely cringing she didn't want to transmit this fear to her children. This was, I think, both a wise and brave thing to do.

Several years ago I had a conversation with a man who convinced me that the older generation, as well as children, are beginning to accept the friendliness as well as the beneficial qualities of snakes. He began the conversation by an enthusiastic song of praise for these much abused reptiles. He had been a farmer at one time and I knew that while on the farm he had killed off snakes as ruthlessly as any careful housewife kills flies.

I was curious to know what had brought about the change in his regard for snakes. When I asked him he told me that he was taught the true facts about snakes by a fellow worker in a road-building crew. When the road crew encountered a snake their first thought was to kill it, but the friend of snakes soon dissuaded them from doing so. He must have been an ardent "snake fan" and persuasive speaker. My acquaintance told me that when that piece of road was finished, nearly every man in the crew had learned to like snakes.

Perhaps 20 years from now the children will be laughing at their parents' and grandparents' horror of snakes much as we laugh at the stupid traditional ideas former generations had about other matters. At any rate, if you are a parent, don't build up a fear in your child concerning our harmless snakes.

Appleton Showing 'Everybody Sing'

Allan Jones, Judy Garland
In Cast of Musical
Madcap Comedy

"Everybody Sing," a musical that will appeal to opera lovers and swing addicts alike will start today at the Appleton Theatre for a four day showing. Many pictures have made people roll in the aisles, but "Everybody Sing" will have you swinging in the aisles to the fast tempo of music and laughter in this gay madcap comedy.

Something new in the way of screen teams is presented by Allan Jones, as the singing chef, and little Judy Garland, as the girl who can't keep away from "swing" music. Billie Burke, as the actress, and Reginald Owen, as her playwright husband and Judy's father, are outstanding in their portrayals. Reginald Gardiner also scores as the "ham" actor.

Fanny Brice as Louisa, the maid, does a song and dance to the tune of "Daisy, Quainty Me," and stops the show, making it impossible to hear the dialogue in the following scenes.

The story, cleverly written by Florence Ryerson and Edgar Allan Woolf, concerns Judy Garland, who gets expelled from school for singing during classes. Her family sent her to Europe, but she sneaks off the boat at the dock when she realizes that they are none broke. With the aid of her chef, she puts on a musical show that is a success and is able to keep her family from the poorhouse.

"Swing music" and opera shares the melody spotlight of the picture for Allan Jones, Judy Garland, Lynn Carver and Reginald Gardiner offer the "Quartette from Rigoleto," Jones sings "Costi Cosa," "On With the Show" and "The One I Love," and Miss Garland sings "Swing Mr. Mendelssohn," "Down on Melody Farm," "Sweet Chariot" and "I Wanna Swing."

Plots and counterplots, thrills, mystery and romance are all combined in "Double Danger," the second feature of this program. This picture brings Preston Foster and Whitney Bourne to the screen as a romantic team, and is said to be one of the most suspenseful films of the season.

Adventure Picture Is Showing at Elite

A down-to-earth, red-blooded adventure yarn, "Headin' East," which is showing today and Sunday at the Elite theatre, with two-fisted Buck Jones in the starring role, has everything — everything that goes into making grand, pulsating motion picture entertainment.

"Headin' East" briefly, has to do with the strange and exciting adventures of Buck Jones (Buck Jones), a true son of the Old West, who deserts his native rangeland to corner a ring of vicious big-city racketeers. The gangsters have been threatening the livelihood of Buck's father and Buck, true to his Western heritage, takes up his father's fight.

The "Telephone Operator" cast is full of live wires. Comedy is in the expert hands of these famed picture thieves, Alice White and Warren Hymer, a new and brilliant team, who play Shorty and Dottie. Judith Allen and Grant Withers, as Helen and Red, carry the romantic leads, and Withers exhibits a rare sense of comedy which adds character to his leading role.

Rio Theater to Show 'Hitting a New High'

Hailed as the most brilliant and delightful picture in her screen career, Lily Pons' new vehicle, "Hitting a New High," will head the regular mid-week program at the Rio Theater with Jack Oakie co-starring, and a novel story-plot to win new admirers among the film-going public.

Seven songs, ranging from operatic arias through classic "novelty" tunes to sparkling modern numbers are sung by the shapely diva, who is supported by such favorites as Eric Blore, Edward Everett Horton, John Howard, Eduardo Cannello and Louis Alberni. Altogether, "Hitting a New High" is rated as the funniest as well as the most melodic of the famous soprano's screen vehicles.

Elaborate night clubs in Paris and New York, a huge Long Island estate, a big private yacht, a radio station, a Parisian hotel and an African jungle are among the settings for the swift action of the story. The tiny star, who disclosed brilliant comedy talents in her previous vehicle, "That Girl from Paris," becomes even more of a mirth-maker in the new offering. John Howard is said to have the finest role of his career, and Oakie and Horton keep the fun going at a rapid pace throughout.

A fast action drama, generously flavored with comedy, "Telephone Operator," is the added feature on this bill. It is the story of unsung heroes, the telephone men who risk their lives carrying communication to the outposts of civilization.

California Story Is Showing at Rio

George Brent and Olivia de
Havilland in 'Gold Is Where You Find It'

With George Brent and Olivia de Havilland as its stars, "Gold Is Where You Find It," a thrilling melodrama of California in the 1870's, is now showing at the Rio Theatre in one of the most outstanding twin-bill programs ever presented in Appleton.

It is a Warner Bros.-Columbia production in Technicolor and according to reports of previewers is one of the really best pictures of the season.

"Gold Is Where You Find It" deals with a phase of gold-seeking that has hitherto been untouched by the movie—the hydraulic mining whereby tremendously powerful streams of water ripped away hillsides, from the debris of which the miners sifted their metal.

But this debris overflowed upon the lands of the wheat-growers and orchardists, and warfare resulted—deadly. The fight extended over a number of years, nearly split the State of California in two, and was not settled until a court decision declared in favor of the agriculturists and made the hydraulic interests quit.

Supporting Brent and Miss de Havilland are Claude Rains, Margaret Lindsay, John Littel, Marcia Ralston and Barton MacLane.

There is wild excitement and cheers as Jane Withers rides down the home stretch in "Checkers," the added feature on this bill, but what will thrill most of all is the grand human story. The uproarious fun, the aching thrills and the bright enlightenment that come once in every young life is unfolded, and the audience shares it all with Jane, so proud in those checkered racing silks.

Jane recently was voted one of the six most popular stars of today and in this story of galloping hoofs and gallant hearts she's at her very best. Stuart Erwin and Una Merkel play the lovebirds in a hilarious seven-year romance.

YOUR Income Tax

CHECKING DELINQUENTS
The Bureau of Internal Revenue has at its command many sources for checking up delinquent taxpayers. One of these is the "information at source" provision of the revenue act, under which person, "in whatever capacity acting," are required to report to the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, Washington, D. C., payments to another in any calendar year of $1,000 or more. If the recipient is married, and is a citizen or resident of the United States, reports need not be made of salary or other compensation for personal services unless the payments aggregate $2,500 or more. If the marital status of the payee is unknown to the payor, the payee is considered a single person for the purpose of filing an information return for personal services.

Fixed or determinable income includes wages, salaries, royalties, premiums, rent, interest, etc. A separate return of information for each employee is required of employers. The requirements are not limited to periodical payments, but a single payment must be reported. Domestic and resident foreign corporations are required to make a separate report of dividends or distributions for each individual citizen, or resident of the United States, resident fiduciary, or a resident partnership any member of which is a citizen or resident, who was paid $100 or more during the calendar year 1937.

All persons or organizations acting at any time during the year 1937 as broker or other agent in stock, bond, or commodity transactions (including banks which handle clearing orders for depositors or custodian accounts) are required to file returns of information on Form 1100 with respect to all customers, depositors, or accounts for whom or which business was transacted during the year. A separate Form 1100 must be prepared for each customer, depositor, or account, for whom or which business was transacted during the year, and must show the name and address and other information provided for in the form.

Information returns are carefully checked with individual returns of taxpayers. Thousands of delinquent returns and additional revenue amounting to millions of dollars have been secured as the result of the examination of information returns.
